U.S. Bombing Below The 20th Parallel

SAIGON (AP) — The United States reduced its fighter - bomber strikes against North Vietnam again Tuesday and confined them to the southern panhandle below the 20th parallel in a sort of a partial bombing halt aimed at improving the atmosphere for peace negotiations, informed sources said today.

The Air Force's big B52 bombers resumed attacks on supply caches in the panhandle after a 24-hour diversion to targets in South Vietnam. But the U. S. Command said the smaller fighter-bombers flew only about 100 strikes, all below the 20th parallel, which is 75 miles south of Hanoi.

The curtailment of the air war began Sunday, when the total of fighter - bomber strikes dropped from an average of 250-300 to about 140, and about 120 were flown on Monday.

Although the northeast monsoons always reduce the air attack on the North at this time of year, informed sources say orders from President Nixon have curtailed it even more. It is believed that Nixon does not want to acknowledge the curtailment publicly because that would tend to inhibit his freedom to resume heavy strikes on the Hanoi-Haiphong area should the current peace negotiations collapse.

Meanwhile, the second fatal accident aboard a U. S. navy ship off the coast of Vietnam in less than a month killed four American Tuesday night, injured 22 and wrecked nine jet fighter-bombers worth $30 million. Another sailor was reported missing, presumably overboard.

On the South Vietnamese battlefields, Communist forces rained scores of rockets into the Da Nang air base, an adjoining village, a provincial capital 15 miles south of Da Nang and a district town 40 miles northwest of Saigon. An American civilian and 26 South Vietnamese were killed, and two Americans and 109 Vietnamese were wounded.

The naval accident occurred aboard the carrier Midway. The landing gear of an A6 Intruder collapsed as it returned from a mission, and the jet ran wild, plowing into parked planes and crewmen on the bow of the ship and starting a small fire.

The other recent naval accident occurred on Oct. 1 aboard the cruiser Newport News. An explosion ripped through a gun turret as it was firing, killing 20 crewmen and injuring 37.

Break-in Suspects Are Held

BLOOMFIELD — Five men are being held in Stoddard County jail for investigation into Tuesday night's break-in of Nickens Pharmacy here, the second break-in at the store in two weeks.

Being held are Stephen Charles Glass, 23, Fred Randall Bode, 20, James Leonard Coomer, 25, Francis Wayne Maupin, 27, and Andrew Lee Williamson, 27, all of St. Louis.

The men were seen about 7 p.m. allegedly prying open the back door to the store. A witness, Luther Burns Jr. of Bloomfield, Route Two, gave police the license number of the car the men used.

They were arrested at 12:30 a.m. today by Bollinger County sheriff's deputies at a tavern near Lutesville, after the Lutesville city marshall recognized the license number on their car.

The Bloomfield break-in was the latest in a long string of drug store break-ins throughout Southeast Missouri. Police say they are trying to connect the five men with the break-ins.

McGovern Says Of Sabotage Fund

'Whole Ugly Mess In Nixon's Lap'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern said today the reported involvement of White House aide H. R. Haldeman in Republican political sabotage and espionage "places the whole ugly mess...right squarely in the lap of Richard Nixon."

McGovern told a breakfast of labor supporters in Milwaukee that the report, published by the Washington Post, should be alarming to all Americans.

"...That issue alone is enough to retire Mr. Nixon and Mr. Agnew from the White House," he said.

McGovern, quoting the Post, said the accounts "of political espionage, of political sabotage, of corruption of all kinds of our political process, now traces right back to H. R. Haldeman in the White House."

"Now," McGovern said, "this places the whole ugly mess of corruption, of espionage, of sabotage, of wiretapping, right squarely in the lap of Richard Nixon," McGovern said.

The Post said Haldeman was one of five close Nixon associates who controlled a secret campaign spying and sabotage fund.

The Post said it based the report on information from federal investigators and accounts of sworn testimony given to a grand jury investigating the June 17 break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate building.

The newspaper said it has been told that Haldeman, a Nixon aide for 16 years, and the four others authorized to make payments from the secret fund were identified in grand jury testimony by Hugh W. Sloan Jr., who quit as treasurer of the Nixon campaign organization shortly after the Watergate break-in.

Deputy White House press secretary Gerald L. Warren declined comment on the Post report. He referred newsmen to a White House statement issued to the Post, saying that "the reference to Bob Haldeman is untrue."

In today's account and in previous reports, the Post named these others as controllers of the fund:

—John N. Mitchell, former attorney general and the first director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

—Maurice H. Stans, former Commerce Secretary and now director of the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

—Jeb Stuart Magruder, onetime White House aide and now deputy director of the Nixon campaign committee.

—Herbert W. Kalmbach, described by the Post as Nixon's personal attorney. The White House disputes that description, but says Kalmbach has handled some personal legal matters for Nixon.

The sabotage fund, according to the Post, was a cache of as much as $700,000 held in Stans' office safe.

The Post said it has learned that all five men have been questioned by the FBI about disbursements from the fund.

Sloan, the ex-treasurer of the campaign, has told the grand jury that one who received money from the fund was G. Gordon Liddy, the Post said. Liddy is one of seven men under indictment in connection with the Watergate break-in, the incident which set off the disclosures of an alleged GOP sabotage ring.

The Post quoted federal investigators as saying that expenditures of hundreds of thousands of dollars—all approved by either Haldeman, Stans, Mitchell, Magruder or Kalmbach—were made from the fund to finance an undercover operation aimed at discrediting Democratic candidates.

Meantime, Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst told newsmen Tuesday that the Justice Department has no "credible evidence" that federal laws were violated by the alleged acts of sabotage and that he feels no probe of the allegations is warranted.

The accident occurred when the Reese auto attempted to make a left turn and the Fray auto started to pass. The Fray car struck the Reese vehicle in the left side.

Burglar Takes $30

A burglary which netted about $30 in change from coin machines at Todd's Uniform Rental, 400 N. West St., was reported to police this morning.

Police said five employes may be charged with petit larceny for taking candy and cigarettes from the machines. Police said they did not break into the machines, but took the merchandise after they found the machines open. One of the employes was caught by police as he walked out of the building with 40 packs of cigarettes stuffed under his coat.

The burglars broke open two candy machines, two coffee machines and a cigarette machine. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in a window on the southeast side of the building.

Billings Named Appeals Judge

KENNETT — William H. Billings of Kennett was appointed Tuesday to the Missouri Court of Appeals, Springfield division, by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Flake L. McHaney, also of Kennett, was named judge of the 35th Judicial Circuit, filling a vacancy left by Billings.

The 35th Judicial Circuit consists of Dunklin and Stoddard counties. McHaney and Billings are former law partners, and Billings is a former classmate and close friend of Gov. Hearnes.

The judgeship on the Springfield Appeals Court was created by the Missouri Legislature this year and becomes effective Jan. 1, 1973. McHaney has been appointed to fill Billings' unexpired term until 1975 general election, at which time voters will determine who will fill the remaining two years.

McHaney, who is a senior partner of the Kennett law firm of McHaney and Welman, said he will dissolve his partnership before assuming the bench post in January.

CHIANG AT 85

According to both a World War I British army song and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, "Old soldiers never die; They just fade away." In the post-World War II era, however, a few old soldiers like Eisenhower, de Gaulle, and Patton have died but not faded. And at least three others -- Mao Tse-tung, Franco, and Chiang Kai-shek -- have done neither. Chaing, the elder soldier-statesman of the latter group, will celebrate his 85th birthday anniversary on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Except for a brief period of retirement, Chian has been the de facto ruler of the Chinese Nationalists since 1927. He became titular head of China in 1943 and was elected President for a six-year term in March 1948. The Communist takeover of the mainland forced Chiang to complete his term on the island of Taiwan. Since then, the National Assembly has elected him to four consecutive six-year terms. In his most recent victory, March 21, 1972, Chiang captured 99.9 per cent of the vote. It would have been 100 per cent except that eight of the 1,316 assembly ballots were blank. Chiang's triumph, though expected, was overshadowed by reports of poor health and of a desire to relinquish the burdens of power.

The octogenarian leader has turned over most of his duties to his 62-year-old son, Chiang Ching-kuo. As premier, the younger Chiang holds the second highest position in the Taiwan government. President Chiang's last public appearance was at his inauguration on May 20. This year, for the first time since 1949, he missed the Oct. 10 National Day celebration. His absence sparked rumors that his son would soon be in complete charge of the country's affairs.

Chiang Kai-shek's last years have not been happy ones. The Communist regime in Peking has been accepted by the United Nations and a majority of its members as the legitimate government of China. Even Chiang's old friend and once-stalwart defender, Richard Nixon, has made overtures to the People's Republic. On Taiwan, the Nationalist war cry of recovering the mainland seems to be little more than the meaningless slogan of a few old men. And the native Taiwanese, who outnumber the Nationalist Chinese by almost 8 to 1, are demanding more of a voice in running the country.

ALLENDE'S POLITICS GETTING CHILLY RESPONSE

The Unidad Popular (UP) coalition of Chilean chieftain Salvador Allende recently suffered its fourth electoral defeat in as many months, giving the opposition an almost two -thirds majority. Why has the "man of the people" been turned down by them?

Mainly because he is not a "man of the people." His associates live up to Marxist elitism. Their wives are well-dressed, and usually driven in posh cars by chauffeurs. Allende's aides no longer live with the people in working class neighborhoods. They prefer villas in exclusive areas of town.

Allende himself is hardly self-denying. His private secretary, Miriam de Ropert, has eighteen cars registered in her name, plus numerous apartments, estates and mansions.

One of Allende's most expensive villas, "Canaveral," is said to be the headquarters of his personal bodyguards. This strong-arm squad, trained by Castro, is innocently called the "Group of Personal Friends."

To hold power in the face of growing discontent, Allende is openly courting the military. His latest move was to appoint Gen. Pedro Palacios as Minister of Mines.

Besides bestowing favors on his entourage and the military, Allende has aggravated Chileans by surrounding himself with foreigners. They include North Koreans, Poles, Russians and, of course, Cubans.

Even more disturbing to Chileans is the economy. The scarcity of goods has led to housewife demonstrations and a strike at the nationalized Chuquicamata copper mine. The strike at the world's largest open pit copper mine was the first in six years.

The two-day strike by 8,000 workers cost Chile $1.6 million. When Allende got them back on the job, 36 supervisors resigned because of the "chaotic administration" by Allende appointees. Their loss further reduced mine productivity.

The peasants are likewsie unhappy. Collectivazation has dislocated agriculture, and basic foods are often as scarce in the countryside as in the city.

With food and goods shortages, it might be expected that Chile will import its necessities. This is doubtful because of more Allende intervention. The Minister of Labor raised longshoremen rates 35 per cent. The Chilean Port Authority hiked port charges 37 per cent. Pilotage charges were increased 129 per cent. Still higher freight rates are due this fall.

Added to these shipping difficulties is currency exchange. Chile has a varying, deliberately confusing system that never uses the official rate. Naturally, the U. S. gets the least favorable rate, 15.8 escudos to the dollar, when the official rate is 28.

Cashing In On Democratic Actions

Last week, The White House and President Nixon sent out a letter to Social Security recipents, taxpayer-paid postage of course, telling them about the 20 percent benefit bill the President had signed, and how it would benefit them. The President also told how he is attempting to protect those same Senior Citizens from rent increases.

What the President conventiently and politically failed to mention was that the Social Security increase was passed by a Democratic House and a Democratic Senate, and that he, President Nixon, signed it under protest. He wasn't for giving more financial aid to the elderly, but he was glad to try to take credit for something the Democrats did, and which he personally opposed.

No wonder the incumbent President has all the advantages in a campaign when such tactics as this are used by him.

DIVERSE DIVERS

Plunging into water is a sort that surprising number of animals seem to enjoy, like humans, purely for the fun of it. Dogs of water- retriever breeds happily leap off piers to splash down among human bathers, even when there is nothing to retrieve. Otters slide into pools from mud or snow banks. Penguins crowd aboard ice floes, then dive off in fast succession like a line of black dominoes toppling. Elk cows wade into mountain pools and splash with their front hoofs. An unexpected spectacle is the mighty bison, a hump-shouldered heavyweight, jumping like a frisky calf into bellydeep water, then climbing out to jump again. But perhaps the most startling of all is horses' capacity for high-diving. First discovered by an American trainer almost a century ago, the willingness of well- trained horses to jump into water from heights of 30 feet or more furnished entertainment for generations of carnival- goers. Unaccompanied, one famous pair of all- white horses would climb a ramp to a diving platform on a scaffold, place their forefeet on a lowered front ledge, then jump off. It was no bellywhopper, but a real chest- down, front- legs-forward dive. Surfacing after brief immersion in the 12-foot water, the horses would shake their dripping heads and swim to an exit ramp. Only a few years ago, three handsome brown mules were still high-diving at country fairs.

COMPROMISE ON BUSING

The United States Senate has approved what is supposed to be a compromise between opponents and proponents of school busing. It is, instead, an exercise in political sleight- of-hand.

Two things may be accomplished by the Mansfield-Scott amendment if it survives the Senate- House conference: Some senators may get off the election- year hook by persuading their constituents that they have struck a blow for neighborhood schools. Secondly, the movement for a constitutional amendment agains t busing may have been undercut.

But the effect on busing, itself, would be minimal.

The Mansfield- Scott amendment would forbid the use of federal funds for busing unless school officials voluntarily asked for the money. Faced with the added expense of a court- ordered busing plan, however, it is unlikely that officials would not seek help.

Other provisions would: Prohibit busing that would be harmful to children or that woul;place them in schools inferior to those nearest their homes; bar federal employes from requiring the use of state and local funds for busing "unless constitutionally required"; and delay court-ordered busing plans pending appeal, or until June 30, 1973.

These provisions are facades. The Supreme Court already has placed safety restrictions on busing. It would be practically impossible to prove in court, before the plan in question was put into operation, whether one school would be inferior to another — the purpose of any desegregation plan is to improve schools. And tying funds to constitutional requirements neither adds nor detracts from what the courts are doing.

The only benefit that anti-busing forces would gain would be from delay. But where courts found that school boards had not acted in good faith, the demands of equity might take precedence, as they did in a series of Mississiippi cases when the Supreme Court said "desegregate now, litigate later."

It is not unrealistic to suppose that the senators are worldly and intelligent enough to realize the limitations of their "compromise." If anyone should take comfort from the legislation, it is the supporter of busing as a tool to achieve desegregation.

The nation at large does not want busing to disrupt the neighborhood school system. Most people probably would like either Congress or the Supreme Court to prevent his from happening. The Seante, in its political wisdom (or desperation), has tried to look good doing nothing.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

A good example of how permissiveness can lead from dissent, to license, to outright anarchy could be seen in a recent "national convention" of members of a group known as Students for a Democratic Society..SDS. Seven hundred young people attended the convention. They passed a resolution calling for "support for (military) deserters and their demand for amnesty." The resolution further stated, "The armed forces of the United States as presently constituted are the primary instrument of American imperialism and are used to oppress people in the United States and other countries." It concluded by resolving that members of the SDS"...initiate and support activities directed toward creating a radical political consciousness among the members of the armed forces."

What may be even more offensive to the thoughtful citizen than the goals of the SDS is the fact that the misdirected young people held their convention on the campus of Michigan State University. Two members of the Michigan State Legislature toured the campus during the event. One of them said, "I never thought I'd see anything like this at a state-supported university." Advocating revolution should not be confused with the right to dissent. Apparently, the SDS members were never taught the difference.

PROVEN BY EXPERIENCE

Political expediency may end by using the lofty goal of "tax reform" as a cloak to disguise a steady drift toward new devices for tightening the squeeze of the taxation wringer on the most productive elements in the country.

While Congress is in the midst of considering proposals to curb or eliminate the percentage depletion allowance provision of the tax laws for petroleum producers, some hard truths about oil exploration have just been released by "Oil Facts", a publication of the American Petroleum Institute. It notes that dry holes cost the oil industry more than $830 million a year, and the cost is going up rapidly. "Funds invested in unsuccessful drilling projects," it says, "in the years 1959 through 1966 totaled an estimated $6.5 million." A release from the Western Oil and Gas Assocation points out that for the first time in 40 years, under the impetus and emotion of the drive for tax reform, percentage depletion is in danger. This means that in the guise of tax reform taxes may be allowed to dry up to the seed corn of the oil industry—the capital that producers count upon for the funds to continue exploratory efforts that are absolutely vital in a nation that runs on oil.

We seem to have forgotten what the late President John F. Kennedy said almost 10 years ago, "Its (the depletion allowance) purpose and its value are first of all to provide a rate of exploration, development and production adequate to our national security and the requirements of our economy. The oil depletion allowance has served us well by this test."

SENSIBLE SALTING PROGRAM IS URGED

Producers of deicing salt are looking ahead to next winter in developing a program that recommends less but more sensible use of their product.

Concerned about possible environmental side effects if its product is misused, the industry has announced a "Sensible Salting Program" that encourages proper salt storage and application, monitored by local citizen committees.

To head off potential side effects on nearby vegetation and local water supplies that may be caused by improper storage or application, the Salt Institute, which conducts the program for participating companies, has produced a packet of material on correct salting practices. The Institute assists in setting up local citizen committees and giving them projects that provide environmental safeguards while insuring that winter roads are kept open and safe for drivers and pedestrians.

Some sample suggestions include checking of spreaders for accuracy of calibration, controls of salt storage piles to insure that they are covered and drained, conferences with public works directors to review spreading practices, checking reports of chloride levels in public water supplies, and the encouragement of planting salt-resistant vegetation near roads.

THE SENATE AND WELFARE

The U.S. Senate, thank goodness, has found its soul. By a 53- 34 vote, that august body has killed a resolution that would provide a family of a fixed income of $2,600 whether a member was was employed or loafing. The guaranteed income proposal of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D.—Conn. would not have stipulated work as a requirement for relief. The Senate should not have to muster incentive for work. It should be a natural desire on the part of the people. If they don't have that incentive, they should not be recipients of public funds.

Sen. Russell Long, D.— La., opposed the bill, declaring that the guaranteed income concept made him "tremble in fear for the fate of this Republic." It should make us all tremble. This is not to say that the indigent of the nation should not have some help from their fellow citizens. They should. Those physically capable of work should do it, for the accomplishment of a job is one of the great pleasures of life.

Sen. Long pointed out with great wisdom that the welfare system makes it more profitable to loaf than to work. Prophetically, he declared that a guaranteed income would swell the ranks of the unemployed and that the Congress in future years would be tempted to raise the limit on government grants. Again he spoke with wisdom. We have seen this happen in the relief programs and foreign aid already.

The nation must produce to survive. The men and women of this Republic have to dedicate their minds and their bodies to making us strong and it is the product or our initiative that will keep the economy sound and promote the common good. The opportunity is there. It is not evident in the socialistic states.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Iguanas aren't the world's greatest pets, frankly, but when you live in a 19th-floor apartment in the city, Airedales are out of the question.

That's how my husband and I used to explain it to squeamish dinner guests after they asked what the green things clinging to the drapes were.

The drapes were their second home. The first was a terrarium, but they outgrew that in a year—when Hamm was four feet long and Clov was three.

They never actually learned their names. They barely knew who we were and took no pains to conceal their aversion to us. They were ugly. And they had the annoying habit of disappearing for days on end and turning up in one of David's suit jackets or under a heater.

On the other hand, we loved them. They were fascinating to watch, and many's the long winter eve we've spent mulling over the strange love-hate relationship between them.

Even so, we never discovered whether they were male or female, or one of each. But their personalities were different: Hamm was the placid earthmother type, and Clov was inclined to feistiness. According to our lizard handbook, iguanas themselves have trouble distinguishing the sexes.

Our friends were considerably less fascinated by them than we, and our fascination began to pall as they continued to grow.

When we moved to a townhouse apartment in a suburb—with a lease stipulating No Pets—we farmed Hamm out with a bizarre relative in Birmingham. Clov we took along, intending to send him (her?) up to Knoxville, where a home had been promised her (him?) at the city zoo.

Meanwhile, we turned him loose in our patio garden, whence he promptly disappeared. We searched among the ivy, but in vain.

Several weeks later our landlady, who lives next door, approached me.

"You know," she said, "I'm really worried about poor Don across the street. He swears there's a lizard in his fig tree. He told me that last week, but I thought he'd had a couple of drinks.

"And the darndest thing is, that lizard has grown a foot since the last time he told it.

"That is the darndest thing," I said. "Where would a lizard come from around here?"

I've crept over for three nights now and called softly over the fence where the fig tree is. It's getting cold, and Clov is a warm-weather beastie. If you see a fig-stuffed iguana, do me a favor and ship it collect to the Knoxville zoo.

We do have a lease to worry about.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- Ten months ago, President Nixon told congressional leaders that the United States was "neutral" in the India—Pakistan conflict, although he had given secret orders to "tilt" toward Pakistan. Today, the U.S. is still tilting toward Pakistan, and Administration officials are still twisting the truth.

A foreign aid spokesman assured us that the U.S. is now shipping technical aid and relief food to India. From the White House down, officials insisted the U.S. is not favoring Pakistan over India. "There is no discrimination against India," a State Department official said.

The Indian embassy, however, tells us a different story. Not only were all aid shipments suspended last December in violation of signed agreements, said a spokesman, but the ban still hasn't been lifted. When we quoted what the foreign aid agency had told us, he made a careful check and reported back that no aid is getting through except possibly some delayed items that had been scheduled before the December suspension.

In contrast, the U.S. has quietly stepped up its support of Pakistan. In September, the U.S. granted Pakistan a 40- year, low interest $60 million loan; rescheduled a debt agreement worth $51 million in debt relief to Pakistan; and signed an agreement to ship 600,000 tons of wheat to Pakistan.

While Pakistan is filling its bins with American grain, it will export nearly an equal amount of rice. The wheat shipments, in other words, will help make it possible for Pakistan to sell rice on the world market for an estimated $46 million in cold cash. Pakistan will also be permitted to use the U.S. loan money to buy necessities from America's trade rivals.

The Indian embassy spokesman agreed with the State Department, at least, that there has been no diplomatic discrimination against India. "In terms of access," he said, "there has been no discrimination."

We, however, have uncovered evidence of discrimination. Recent instructions went out, for example, from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to its Langley Research Center. "During the past few months," declared the memo, "NASA (particularly Langley) has been getting many requests from India for published NASA reports without any attempt on the Indians' part to pay for these reports. Since the requestors are generally not involved in NASA cooperative projects, it is suggested that future requests be directed if possible to locations where the reports may be purchased."

The instructions were signed by James R. Morrison, deputy director of international planning. He acknowledged that he had singled out India, although other nations also seek and receive free NASA documents. He had ordered the crackdown on Indian requests, he explained, because they had become "excessive."

Quite clearly, U.S. policy on the Indian subcontinent still has a pronounced pro—Pakistan tilt.

--CHAFEE RETALIATES--

The Nixon Administration and the Republican Party machinery in Rhode Island are apparently cooperating in an effort to purge a federal employee who had the courage to tell the truth.

He is Arthur Levin, a congressional liaison officer at ACTION, the new agency that combines Peace Corps, VISTA and other volunteer activities.

Levin's sin was to publicly confirm our recent story which accuse President Nixon's former Navy Secretary, John Chaffee, of making personal use of Republican Governors Association funds when he was chairman of that organization in 1968.

Chafee is currently running for the Senate against incumbent Democrat Claiborne Pell. The White House considers the race crucial to its plans for a Republican takeover of the Senate.

Chafee, therefore, vehemently denied the charges. Levin, however had served as Chafee's press secretary and executive assistant in 1968 and he knew the charges to be true. So he issued a statement supporting our story and offered to meet Chaffee in publid debate.

Levin's embarrassing challenge, it appears, may have cost him his job.

Shortly after he issued the statement, John Chaffe personally spoke with Levin's superiors at ACTION. Nick Laird and Eric Silberstein. Laird and Silberstein claim Chafee called simply to inquire "whether Levin was acting in any official capacity."

Chafee's spokesman, on the other hand, mentioned the call was actually an effort to help Levin. "Mr. Chafee is not a vindictive man," said Dave Sweet, Chafee's press secretary. "He didn't want anything done (to Levin) on his account."

A week later, however, Levin was given two days notice to prepare for a three-week trip to the southwest and west coast to "survey...regional office needs for congressional affairs specialists.

Levin, claiming the trip was cooked up to get him out of Washington until the election, refused to go.

Furthermore, Levin told us in a sworn statement, he has been informed by Laird that "the telephone lines between the White House and ACTION have been burning. The Republicans in Rhode Island are literally screaming for your blood.

Levin is a Civil Service employee and, theoretically, cannot be fired for political reasons. Yet Silberstein told him, Levin swore, that the "system does not work" and that "the White House people can find ways around the regulations."

Levin said he has also received a call from Thomas Wright, Chairman of the Republican Party in Rhode Island. According to Levin, Wright threatened to "fix" and "ruin" him by seeing that he was "soon without a job."

Laird and Silberstein denied making the statements attributed to them by Levin. Silberstein even offered to put his denial in the form of an affidavit "if it it will help kill the story."

Thomas Wright also denied calling Levin, but admitted he kees the Administration "alerted" to Levin's activities.

NOTE: Levin has already managed to survive one purge attempt this year. Last January, he wrote a letter to the Providence Evening Bulletin in which he spoke favorably of Senator Pell. The letter was signed "Arthur D. Levin, Washington, D.C.," but it reportedly prompted Republican chief Wright to enlist the support of Harry Dent, then a White House political aide, in a clumsy effort to get Levin fired.

Robinson Continues Distinguished Career

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "What you have to do in our profession is maintain your sense of humor. When you feel yourself starting to get serious, that's when you should start smiling. When you get more serious, break out laughing. That's the only way to keep your sanity."

Edward G. Robinson was philosophising about his long survival in the film world. For proof of his theory, he offered the example of another relic of the gangster-movie era — "he won some awards and then became so dignified that he lost touch with reality."

It could never happen to Eddie Robinson.

He continues his distinguished acting career with a twinkle in his eye, refusing to be impressed with Hollywood or himself.

Robinson demonstrated his attitude recently when MGM gave him a champagne reception to celebrate his 101st movie, "Soylent Green," a science fiction story about overpopulation in the 21st century. Costar Charlton Heston delivered a flowery speech, Robinson's oldtime leading lady Joan Blondell gave him a kiss, and onetime boss Jack Warner tossed in some wisecracks. Robinson cut a cake and responded with gracious thanks.

Later he admitted, "This isn't my 101st picture. More like 120th. My God, I've done so many that I lost count long ago.

"I'm the kind of guy who keeps track of nothing, saves nothing. Oh, when I was a kid starting out in the theater, I saved my reviews. Then it was simple. You go out of town with a play, you get reviews. You come into New York, you get more reviews.

"But how the hell are you going to collect reviews on a movie when it's opening everywhere? After I got in pictures, I gave up saving anything."

Except art. He was the first of the famous Hollywood art collectors, amassing a gathering of Renoirs, Gauguins, Corots and Matisses that made his Beverly Hills home an artlover's paradise.

What's The Law

Unbearable Chair

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Herman manufactured a pair of slacks that he maintained was wrinkle resistent. And to prove it he sponsored a "National Lap Sitting Contest." On every major college campus throughout the country he provided prizes for the collegian who could hold the greatest number of coeds on his lap while wearing a pair of Herman's slacks. On one college campus, however, the slacks held up, but the chair did not. While Ruppert supported a stack of 14 pretty coeds on his lap, the chair suddenly caved in.

Crawling out from underneath the bevy of beauties, collegian Ruppert sued Herman for his injuries.

"There's no question that Herman's responsible." Ruppert told the judge. "He negligently supplied a chair that couldn't hold the weight. Therefore, I demand that the jury be instructed to award me damages for my injuries."

"Not so fast," was Herman's answer. "When a man permits 14 girls to sit on his lap, he can anticipate that while he may be able to take it, the chair may not. Consequently, there's a question for the jury to decide as to whether Ruppert's entitled to collect anything at all.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the jury to return a verdict in favor of Ruppert?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a person may not collect in this state when he voluntarily exposes himself to a hazard which is known or which he can anticipate. He may not close his eyes to obvious danger. In this case, concluded the judge, it is up to the jury to determine whether the danger was obvious to Ruppert for if it was, despite Herman's negligence, Ruppert would not be able to recover for his injuries.

Scott YVP's Work For Nixon Day Saturday

Leaders of the Young Voters for the President movement in Scott County are busy this week preparing plans for campaign programs Saturday to observe "Nixon Appreciation Day".

Local YVP Chairman David Ziegenhorn stated the special day is being observed throughout Southeast Missouri to demonstrate the support of young people for President Richard M. Nixon's record in the White House.

The YVP chapter is setting up its own campaign program for that day, rather than follow any established pattern, in order to do what will be considered the most effective means of aiding the effort to re-elect the President.

Some members may be passing out literature to the public in shopping areas while others are conducting telephone polls or calling on residents in door-to-door canvasses in different parts of the county.

Ziegenhorn stated that the efforts Saturday are more than just a one-day demonstration of support for the President, but the launch of a intensified effort during the last three weeks of the campaign.

Ann Landers

Parents Should Be More Strict Than Permissive

Dear Ann Landers: I buried my husband three days ago. Everyone has been telling me what a wonderful person he was-- such a perfect gentleman, so kind and considerate, how lucky I was to have had him for so many years, and how I must now pick up the pieces and carry on without my beautiful helpmate.

What they don't know is that he was a vicious drunk. I spent the last 15 years covering up for him. Just once I'd like to tell somebody what my life was really like. In a word it was HELL. I think I'd fell better. I know this is not normal yet the urge is overwhelming. Now that he is gone and I am free, you'd think I'd want to keep my mouth shut, but I don't. Can you help me? I'm on the--- Ragged Edge

Dear Edge: You've told me. That's enough. If you feel the need to unload, in detail, write again-- say anything that crosses your mind. It will be good therapy for you and I won't mind. I've heard everything.

Dear Ann Landers: When I read that letter about the college kid who informed his parents that he wanted a double bed put in his room so he and his girl could sleep together during vacation, I got so mad I almost wigged out. And that idiot mother has to write to Ann Landers yet to ask what she should do!!!!

Two of our friends have college- age kids who pulled the same stunt and got away with it. (One is a girl!) The mother of this so- called liberated female said they had no choice. The girl announced that if they didn't say it was O.K. for her and the fellow to sleep in her room they would pitch a tent on the front lawn and sleep there so all the neighbors could see.

Another mother who was mouse- trapped into a similar situation told my husband and me that she was raised by a strict Methodist minister father and an out- of- this world prudish mother and that she was glad her children were honest and open about sex and that she was all for it.

What will these kids be like ten years from now? Will they be better off or worse off than we were? Can you tell us?--- Mind Boggled In Benton Harbor

Dear Boggled: No-- and neither can anyone else. Extreme rigidity is as damaging to children as permissiveness. The most difficult part of parenthood is to find the middle ground. If parents can't decide whether to say yes or no, my advice is to say "NO." I firmly believe that less damage is done by being too strict than too permissive. Besides, kids don't always want everything they ask for.

Dear Ann Landers: A group in our office has been having a small argument about something. When it is raining would a person get more wet, less wet or just wet if he ran instead of walked? We just took a vote and three said, "Just as wet, no matter if you walk or run." Six said, "Less wet if you run." Two said, "More wet if you run." Consult your Time and Motion expert and let us know what you come up with.--- X-Ray Department (Theme Song: Raindrops Falling On My Head)

Dear Head: If you run you will get less wet because you will be out in the rain for a shorter period of time, therefore you would have less exposure to the raindrops falling on your head. (P.S. There's a clever invention that could reduce this problem considerably. It is called an umbrella.)

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." For a copy, mail 35c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to this newspaper.

In some countries, such as Canada and Great Britain, Girl Scouts are called Girl Guides.

Junior Woman's Club Hears Mrs. Harbin

Arts and crafts items were displayed and discussed by Mrs. Sam (Del) Harbin at Monday night's Junior Woman's Club meeting in Wesley United Methodist Church.

The items, created by Mrs. Harbin, included decoupage, decorative painting, paper mache and lace and trim work. Through working with and teaching arts and crafts methods, she indulges a personal ambition while helping others enrich their lives.

Many craft items are made with "left-overs," and are therefor ecologically practical, she said.

Mrs. Ron (Linda) Carmody was elected to replace Mrs. Bill (Connie) Garner as treasurer. Mrs. Garner's resignation was due to plans of the family to relocate.

Guests included members of the Senior Woman's Club.

Betty Crocker coupons to help Missouri Girls Town, a Missouri Federated Womens Club supported home for girls, are to be delivered or sent to Mrs. Jerry (Donna) Koch by Nov. 7.

These coupons are to aid in the purchase of a station wagon to be used by housemother or director in transporting residents of Girls Town to special events and group outings.

Science Fair Under Way

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Administrators and science teachers of junior and senior high schools in Southeast Missouri have been urged to encourage participation of talented science pupils in the 17th annual Southeast Missouri Regional Science Fair to be held April 3- 6.

Dr. Robert J. Kuster, director of the fair and a professor of biology at Southeast Missouri State University, has sent separate letters to administrators and teachers, including those who teach social science and behaviorial science, asking participation.

More than 200 pupils bring their exhibits here for the regional event, with winners receiving numerous medals and awards, including two all- expense trips to join other youngsters from around the world at the International Science and Engineering Fair, this year in San Diego, Calif.

Dr. Kuster noted that many of the winners have been selected from local science fairs. He encouraged teachers and school officials to conduct local fairs so residents of the area's communities can see the work being done in their science departments. Winners can then be selected to take part in the district event.

Teachers who did not receive the mailing may contact Dr. Kuster at the university.

Fourth Judge To Be Named In Williams Case

BENTON — A fourth attempt to find a judge to try the 11-year-old double murder and rape case against James (Buddy) Williams of Holland has been handed to the Missouri Supreme Court. Williams is awaiting his second trial in Scott County Circuit Court.

The latest judge to disqualify himself was Judge W. Osler Statler of Cape Girardeau. Judge Statler disqualified himself Thursday after a petition requesting a new judge was filed by Pemiscot County Pros. Atty. Arthur T. Stephenson.

The trial has been delayed three times this year in Scott County Circuit Court as judges disqualified themselves. Judge Statler was originally sheduled to preside at the trial on March 20, but postponed it, saying the trial would conflict with another hearing scheduled in his own circuit of Cape and Bollinger Counties.

After a long delay, Stephenson requested that Judge Statler be disqualified and requested the Supreme Court to appoint another special judge for the case.

Judges who previously disqualified themselves were Judges William H. Billings of Kennett and Marshall Craig of Sikeston.

Williams, originally sentenced to death in the state penitentiary gas chamber, has been in the prison for a decade while legalities of the case are argued in the courts.

He was charged with first-degree murder and rape in connection with an incident on Dec. 22, 1961 on a rural road near Holland in Pemiscot County. He is accused of murdering Branda Joyce Raines, 17, of Holland, and her 19-year-old finance, Frank Craig of Blytheville, Ark. Miss Raines was sexually assaulted before she was killed.

The bodies were found along the road about a mile from Williams' home.

Williams was arrested after authorities learned he had been seen near the Craig car, which was parked on the road at the time of the slaying. Williams, after questioning and a lie detector test given at the Cape Girardeau police station, signed a confession admitting the double murders and rape.

Criminal assault and first-degree murder charges were filed against Williams in Pemiscot County on Dec. 26, 1961. Because Williams' attorney thought he could not receive a fair trial in Pemiscot County, a change of venue was granted to Scott County Circuit Court.

He was found guilty of the three charges in June 1962 and was sentenced to death. The sentence was thrown out when his attorney appealed to the Supreme Court, which awarded him a new trial.

His lawyers then entered pleas on the three counts, and Williams was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

In 1971, Williams filed a motion with the Supreme Court contending that his attorneys had not received authorization to enter guilty pleas for him, and once again the high court granted him a new trial on all three charges.

Larry Stricklin of Kennett was given a $100 fine and placed on two- year probation on charges of stealing less than $50.

Stanley Roger Campbell of Miner was sentenced to one week in county jail and a $10 fine each on charges of speeding and driving without a license. He pleaded not guilty to charges of careless and imprudent driving and had trial set for Oct. 24.

The face-slapping contest duration record was set in Kiev, U.S.S.R., in 1931, when a draw was declared between Vasiliy Bezbordny and Goniuschi after 30 hours.

Highlights And Sidelights

2 Amendments Appear On November 7 Ballot

JEFFERSON CITY -- Two amendments, one of which could reduce taxes for Missourians by as much as $35 million or more, will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The first amendment deals not only with two of the state's unpopular taxes -- the property tax levy on household goods and the income tax on intangibles -- but with a proposal to give tax relief to those over 65 years of age.

Passage of this amendment would give the Legislature the authority to enact laws eliminating an estimated $12 to $13 million in household goods taxes, giving the elderly as much as $10 million a year in tax credits or rebates, and repealing an estimated $12 million a year in intagible taxes on individuals and non- profit organizations.

Constitutional Amendment No. 2 would establish new procedures to be followed by the General Assembly on bills vetoed by the governor either in the closing days of a regular session or after its conclusion.

If approved, any bill returned by the governor on or after the fifth day before the last day the General Assembly may consider bills in odd-numbered years will be placed at the top of the calendar of the house to which it is retuned.

In even- numbered years, however, any bill returned in this way would have to be considered at a session convened in September.

These sessions would be restricted to 10 days in length, and could be used only to consider vetoed bills.

The two-thirds majority required to override a veto would not be altered.

The repeal of the Household goods tax is contained in the first part of Constitutional Amendment No. 1. It states that "household goods, furniture, wearing apparel and articles of personal use and adornment owned and used by a person in his home or dwelling place may be exempt from taxation by general law."

The second part of Constitutional Amendment No. 1 gives the Legislature two alternatives to consider in providing tax relief for the elderly. Either the so-called circuit breaker approach or a homestead plan.

Under the circuit-breaker system, persons up to a certain level of income, which would be determined by the Legislature, would get a credit on their state income tax for local porperty taxes they paid. If the property tax they paid was greater than the state tax they owed, they would receive a rebate from the state.

Rep. Jack J. Schramm (D-University City) introduced a circuit-breaker bill in the spring session which was approved by the House, but was not acted upon by the Senate committee. Schramm estimated the bill would return about $10 million in tax credits to about 138,000 elderly person, averageing about $74 each. It limited financial assistance by establishing a means test for eligibility and a limit on assistance granted.

Another approach the Legislature could take to grant tax relief to those over 65 is the homestead approach. This sets up a system of property tax exemptions for homeowners and renters. Under this system, the Legislature could provide that a portion of an elderly person's assessed valuation would be exempt from property taxes. Local governments would have to figure the exemptions on their tax bills.

It is only in this section of the amendment, the part dealing with tax relief to the elderly, that the Legislature is required to provide some reimbursement to the local governments for any revenue lost due to enactment of such a law. In the sections dealing with the household goods and intangible taxes, the Legislature is not required to provide restitution for possible revenues lost.

The Legislature passed a measure repealing all intangible taxes earlier this year, however, it does not take effect until Jan. 1, 1975.

Constitutional Amendment No. 1 would permit the Legislature to enact legislation which would exempt individuals and non-profit organizations from an intangible tax, but not apply to corporations, banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions and unstitutions.

Organized campaigns for or against either amendment appear to be nonexistent and both seem sure of passage.

A total of 50 amendments have been placed on the ballot since the Missouri Constitution was revised on 1945. Of these, 31 have passed.

Taught to Win

So strongly do the Asmat people of New Guinea believe in equality that when some schoolchildren were taught to play soccer, the games invariably ended in ties and only after much prompting did they learn to play to win.

? Consumer's Question Box ? By Margaret Dana

Q. We are a ninth grade Home Ec Class and we have recently seen a commercial in which the Totem Company boosts their own products and slams Baggies. How can they do this?

A. While it has been considered unethical and unfair business practice to name one's competitors in a critical or disparaging way, the Federal Trade Commission recently announced it was going to try out for one year permission for an advertiser to do this -- to be specific in claims of superiority.

It is, therefore, legal, but very few experienced trade experts believe this provides an advantage to the consumer buyer, or encourage fair competition. Your study class might write to the Consumer Education Division, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580, and ask if your class could have a copy of its rule on this.

Frankly Speaking By Thomas F. Eagleton

I regret to report that, in the Congressional session just ended, the House and Senate were unable to agree on stronger measures to combat the menace of airplane hijackings.

You don't need to have traveled by air recently to understand the fear and anxiety that sky pirates have caused.

After five years of trying to devise measures to deal with these despicable acts of terrorism, we now realize the complexities of attempting to solve the problem on an international basis. We have only to read the newspapers to realize that we have not made much headway.

The actions we have taken to date -- such as placing sky marshals on regularly scheduled flights, using metal detection devices at airports, and attempting to identify potential hijackers by "behavior profiles" -- seem to have reduced the number of hijackings. But none of these measures, however, represents a full solution. And we cannot be satisfied until that solution is found.

During the past year several efforts were made in Congress to improve anti- hijacking legislation, including imposing certain minimum security standards on commercial airlines. Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington introduced a bill to tighten the current laws. It would have carefully defined U. S. jurisdiction in hijack cases and would have provided harsh penalties for anyone involved in hijacking an aircraft.

Perhaps the most important aspect of Sen. Magnuson's bill is that it would have empowered the President to cut off air service to any country which allows itself to be used as a refuge for hijackers.

It is time that the nations of the world began to follow up their expressed concern for terrorism by entering into agreements that have the teeth to back them up.

Countries that harbor terrorists or which allow themselves to be used as refuges for air pirates should be made the objects of internationally imposed economic and political sanctions.

Sen. Magnuson's bill, if passed in the next session of Congress, will go a long way toward deterring future hijackings in this country. But we should extend its provisions to apply to other countries as well, and our State Department should be giving the negotiations for such agreements the highest priority.

Congress must make this important legislation one of its first priorities when we reassemble in early January. Legislation to control the hijacking menace should be high on the list of nonpartisan measures about which there should be no real disagreements.

Blades Releases Information On Teachers Salaries

HOWARDVILLE — Salary for New Madrid County R-1 enlarged school district teachers, based on a minimum salary of $6,400, is $5.16 per hour, compared to Manpower Development and Training teachers, who are paid $5.50 hourly statewide, according to a study by J. Robert Blades of Parma, Manpower Development and Training Act director for the district.

Blades released the information in a recent report to the R-1 board of education.

Blades noted the hourly wage scale is based on figures that a regular teacher works 6.5 hours per day or 32.5 hours each week for 36 weeks each year, or a total of 1,242 hours annually. However, Blades commented, a majority of the district teachers, because of several years of experience, receive a much higher pay scale than the base figure.

MDTA teachers, who are required to have five years of experience in their trade area, work eight hours daily, or 40 hours weekly for 52 weeks, less a two- week vacation, and receive $11,400.

All MDTA instructors, excepting new teachers, have attended night classes at their expense to secure 20 hours credit required for vocational certification, which, Blades said, is not a requirement by MDTA but indicates an interest by instructors to upgrade their abilities.

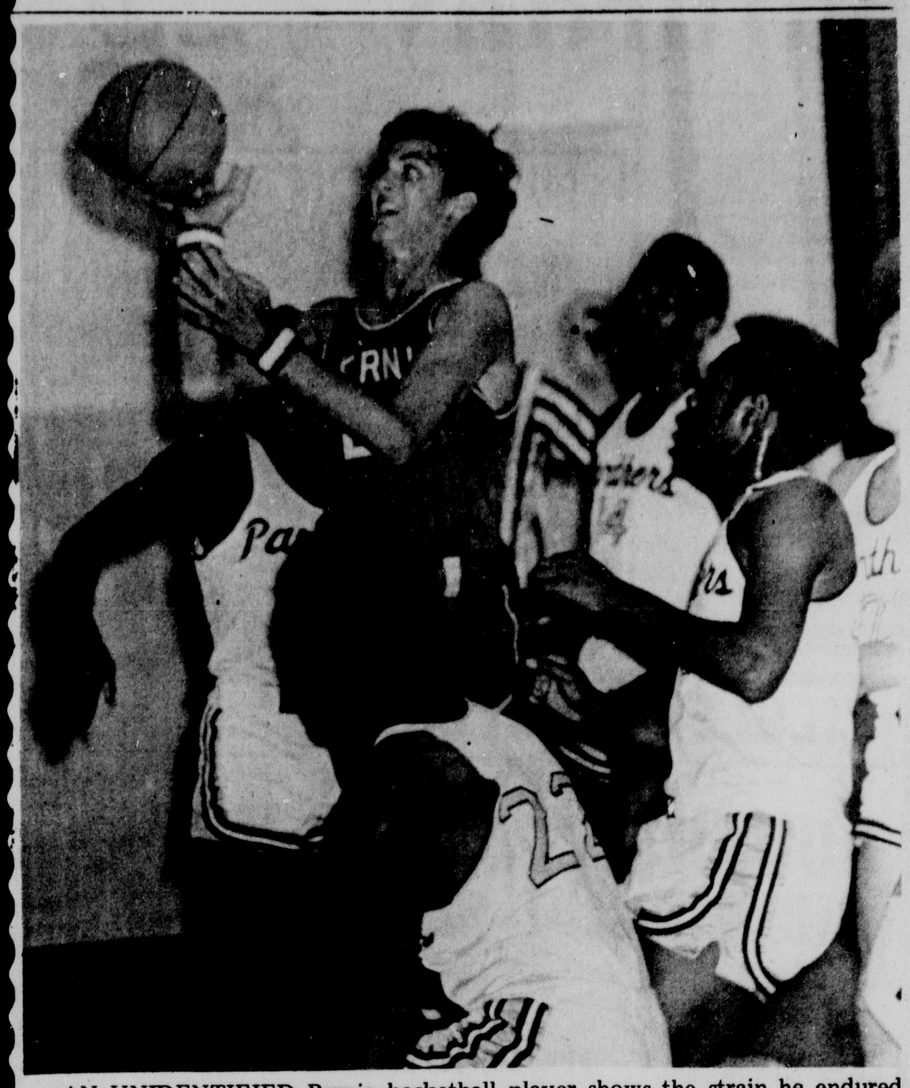
Panthers, Pirates Prevail



AN UNIDENTIFIED Bernie basketball player shows the strain he endured through most of his team's season opener battle with the Lilbourn Panthers Tuesday night in the Parma invitational junior varsity tournament. The Mules were 109-39 victims of the Panthers.

PARMA — If the opening of the 1972-73 high school basketball season is any indication of what's ahead, the Southeast Missouri roundball fan is in for the most exciting season ever.

A capacity crowd sat in on the Bootheel's opening action and saw Lilbourn's junior varsity explode for 109 points to breeze past Bernie, 109-39, while Matthews displayed a tough defensive unit in holding Richland scoreless in the first period and to only 17 points through three quarters before posing a 52- 33 win.

Action in the five-team affair resumes Thursday with Lilbourn matched against Parma at 6:30 and Bernie battling Richland in a loser's bracket contest at 8 p.m.

Coach Bob Phelps' Panthers displayed a sharp shooting, tough rebounding squad against a young Bernie team. Seven players scored in double figures for LHS, with Mike Robinson leading the way with 14 markers. Larry Stuver had 13 for the Mules' leading effort.

Bernie stayed close with the fast-breaking, quick Panther squad most of the first quarter, but ball handling mistakes opened the door for the defending champions, and they quickly rolled up a 53-25 halftime lead.

Matthews displayed a cool, defensive - minded quintet against Richland. The Pirates held the Rebels scoreless through the first nine minutes of action, and then allowed them only 17 markers before using substitutes the final seven minutes of play.

Mike Kennedy had 22 points and Ken Baker 17 in leading the Pirates' season opening triumph. Larry Johnson's seven tallies were tops for the Rebs.

Sports World Mourns Robinson Death

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — A man of courage died Tuesday; the whole world mourns his passing.

Black or white, young or old, athlete, politician or plain old sports fan—all were saddened by the news that Jackie Robinson, 53, had died of heart disease.

President Nixon, who once called Robinson "the greatest athlete I ever saw," said in Washington,"His courage, his sense of brotherhood and his brilliance on the playing field brought a new human dimension—not only to the game of baseball, but to every area of American life where black and white people work side by side. His example will continue to inspire us for years to come."

"His entire life was courage," praised Bowie Kuhn, Commissioner of Baseball. "Courage as the black pioneer of the game, courage as a player, courage in the way he fought for what he believed, courage in the way he faced his final illness."

"I really hope the world will mourn the passing of a man, not just an athlete," said Joe Black, a teammate of Robinson on the Brooklyn Dodgers. "I don't want him to be a martyr—but I want people to know that they've lost a battler."

Jack Roosevelt Robinson was a man whose entire life was a battle, and a man who never gave in—not as a child, growing up in a fatherless home; not as a baseball player, where he broke the color barrier in 1947 by becoming the first black player in the major leagues; not after he retired from the sport, as he strove to accomplish something meaningful for blacks and whites alike, whether in business, sports, politics or civil rights, and not in the face of personal tragedy, whether it was the death of his son or his long, lingering illness.

Robinson, silver-haired and nearly blind, suffered an early morning attack at his home and was pronounced dead on arrival at Stamford Hospital at 7:10 a.m., EDT, Tuesday.

He had been plagued by ailments in recent years. He was felled by a heart seizure in 1968, and also was suffering from diabetes. He had lost his sight in one eye, and was rapidly going blind in the other eye.

When Robinson was invited to throw out the first ball for the second game of the 1972 World Series, he let it be known that if he was asked his opinions, he would not hide them.

And when he was presented with a plaque at home plate commemorating the 25th anniversary of his entrance into baseball, he said in his acceptance speech, "I am extremely proud and pleased, but I will be even more pleased the day I can look over at third base and see a black man as manager."

David Robinson, Jackie's 20year-old son, noted that his father was a "black man in America, and every black man is trying to break down racial barriers—in baseball and everywhere."

Robinson will best be remembered for that day in April, 1947 when he played left field for the Brooklyn Dodgers, breaking the ancient color barrier which had blotted the record of the national pastime.

It was called "the noble experiment," and the two key figures were Robinson, the athlete, and Branch Rickey, boss of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Rickey had hand-picked Robinson to be the pioneer, because he knew it would take more than just athletic skill for the experiment to be a success.

"They'll taunt you and goad you," Rickey told Robinson. "They'll do anything to make you react. They'll try to provoke a race riot in the ball park.

"Robinson, I'm looking for a ballplayer with guts enough not to react."

And Jackie was that ballplayer—because he was an extraordinary man.

Robinson was born Jan. 31, 1919 in the south Georgia farm town of Cairo. His father deserted the five children and Jackie's mother a year later, and the family moved to Pasadena, Calif.

Jackie always was a standout athlete, even on the sandlots of Pasadena. He was so talented, other kids used to buy him drinks and sandwiches just to be on his team.

"You might say," Robinson once quipped, "that I turned pro at a very early age."

Robinson was a star athlete at Pasadena Junior College, then became a standout in football, baseball and track at UCLA.

Anderson Top NL Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — George "Sparky" Anderson, molder of the Cincinnati Reds, today was named Manager of the Year in the National league.

Anderson's Reds won their second pennant in three seasons and he beat Pittsburgh skipper Bill Virdon in an Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters for the Manager of the Year award.

The margin was 271-179 for Anderson, in balloting conducted prior to the National League playoffs and World Series. Montreal's Gene Mauch was a distant third with seven votes.

Cincinnati lost in seven games to Oakland in the World Series that ended Sunday. Anderson's team lost the 1970 Series to the Baltimore Orioles 4-1.

The Reds won the Western Division of the National League by 10½ games this season, while Virdon's Pirates breezed by 11 games in the East. Then, Cincinnati beat the Pirates 3-2 in the playoff for the pennant.

"It feels great although I know awards are won because the team did well," said the graying, 38-yer-old Anderson. "I really wanted this award. Tell everybody I appreciate it.

The former second baseman, who spent 10 of his 11 playing years in the minor leagues, was sitting in his office at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium when he heard the news.

Anderson opened mail, mostly from Reds' fans who said they were behind the team all the way despite the loss to the American League champions.

After a few seasons managing in the minors, Anderson was appointed as a coach by the San Diego Padres in 1969. A year later, when Cincinnati fired Dave Bristol, he was hired to manage the Reds.

He took them to the NL pennant that year, then lost the World Series to Baltimore. In 1971, Cincinnati finished fourth in the Western Division.

Then came 1972, and another Cincinnati pennant.

Other than Mauch, the alsorans included New York Mets Manager Yogi Berra with six votes; Walter Alston, the 1971 Manager of the Year from Los Angeles, four; Whitey Lockman of Chicago and Harry Walker, who was fired at midseason by Houston, two apiece.

People who credit their ancestors with a trip to this land on the Mayflower number among them the optimists for the largest seagoing craft of all time.

Texas Tech Upset Favorite

NEW YORK (AP) — Missouri and Oregon, fresh from stunning upsets, and Oklahoma State, which pulled off one of its own four weeks ago, get a chance to do it again Saturday against three of the country's top seven college football teams.

—Missouri, which rebounded from a 62-0 whomping at the hands of Nebraska and shocked Notre Dame 30-26, is at home against seventh-ranked Colorado, which has been both an upset victim and victor, the latest a 20-14 triumph over second-ranked—at the time—Oklahoma.

—Oregon, which recovered from four consecutive setbacks, including such whoppers as 68-3 and 65-20, to upset Stanford 1513 last weekend, entertains toprated Southern California.

—Oklahoma State, conqueror of Colorado back on Sept. 30, visits Nebraska for a game that will decide the Big Eight leader since both teams have 2-0 conference records.

What does the future hold in store? Read on, but be forewarned that last week's score was a mediocre .678.

Colorado at Missouri—Logic says the Buffs will be looking back to Oklahoma or ahead to Nebraska. Missouri has already had its upset. Colorado.

Southern Cal at Oregon—Ducks' Dan Fouts undoubtedly will fill the air with footballs, but USC is eighth nationally in total defense. Trojans lost to Oregon last season and comparative Stanford scores (USC 30-21, Oregon 15-13) indicate it should be close again. But this corner says it'll just be another romp for ... Southern Cal.

Oklahoma State at Nebraska—Huskers have bounced back from their opening loss to UCLA by routing five straight opponents, the last three by a combined 167-0 score. Soph quarterback Dave Humm has Bob Devaney's passing attack up among the leaders. Nebraska.

Kansas State at Oklahoma— Sooners rolled up a record 711 yards on the ground last year in clobbering K-State 75-28 and they just might be mad enough to do it again after losing to Colorado. Oklahoma.

Washington State at UCLA— Cougars are a surprising 5-2 but the remainder of the schedule lists Southern Cal, Stanford and Washington after ... UCLA.

Texas at Rice—Longhorns passed 32 times against Oklahoma, only three times against Arkansas. Rice's Bruce Gadd throws a lot every game. Texas.

Penn State at West Virginia— "We're still not making the big play on defense," says Joe Paterno. "We're dropping passes and we're not coming up with the interceptions. And the kicking team hasn't come up with the big play for a long time." Poor Penn State. They're only 5-1 and haven't lost to the Mountaineers since 1955. Penn State.

Florida State at Auburn—Having been tested by the throwing arms of Louisiana State's Bert Jones and Georgia Tech's Eddie McAshan the last two weeks, Auburn now runs into Gary Huff, the Magic Dragon of ... Florida State.

Air Force at Arizona State— The only previous meeting turned into a wild 44-28 triumph last year for ... Arizona State.

Texas Tech at Southern Methodist—Tech ranks 10th in rushing but SMU leads the nation in rushing defense and has two fine runners of its own in Alvin Maxson and Wayne Morris. Hunch says the Mustangs might be looking ahead to Texas.

Upset Special of the Week ... Texas Tech.

Delaware at Temple—"I don't think we're as good a football team as people say we are," says Coach Tubby Raymond of Delaware's defending College Division national champs. "We just inherited our rating. I think it's a residue from last year."

Actually, the Blue Hens dropped from No. 1 to No. 2 a couple of weeks ago although they're still unbeaten. Their last loss was last year to ... Temple.

One-Year Scholarship Proposed

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— The 18- member council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association has voted to recommend to the NCAA convention that a ban be lifted against women athletes.

The policy- making body voted Tuesday to propose that women athletes be permitted to compete in NCAA meets and tournaments, providing they qualify for the events.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the council said some announcements may be made today regarding alleged rules violations by four member institutions.

The council spent most of its meeting Tuesday reviewing the alleged infractions, but officials declined to disclose the schools involved.

"Any action that is taken by the council will not be announced until the member school has been notified," Tom Hansen, NCAA assistant executive director, said.

The council also reaffirmed a previous decision to submit to the 1973 convention in Chicago next January a proposal to limit athletic related financial rewards to one year.

"Some schools use the four year scholarship as a recruiting weapon," said Wade Stinson, University of Kansas athletic director and council member.

"The one- year scholarship will eliminate this."

The council also reaffirmed previous decisions to submit to the convention recommendations to limit the number of financial aid awards which may be given by an institution, require that financial aid for all athletes be based on a recipient's need and establish a national letter of intent for signing athletes.

Under the proposed aid program, a division one university school would be limited to granting 104 scholarships a year in 17 NCAA sports. Each school would be allowed to have 229 additional athletes receiving financial help.

Schools in division two colleges would be limited to 71 new scholarships with 158 additional grants.

The major schools would be permitted to issue 30 football and six basketball scholarships yearly, with 75 additional awards in effect for football and 13 in basketball.

Any person who runs for election to a political office is called a candidate. In ancient Rome, political candidates strove to look their best during election campaigns and wore immaculate white togas to impress voters, The World Almanac notes. The Roman word "candidate" signifies a person dressed in white.

Mizzou Entertains Buffs Saturday

COLUMBIA-- Whatever' mystique was concocted on a drizzly Saturday in South Bend, let 'er rip one more time, Al.

Because the team that's coming to town this week-- Colorado-- had its own brand of adrenalin working overtime on the same momentous afternoon.

The Tigers and Buffs hook up here Saturday afternoon in a Big Eight conference football game before some 51,000 Homecomers. For all their heroics at Notre Dame, the 3— 3 Missourians are still looking for their first conference win in three tries.

The Golden Buffs, meantime, stand 6— 1-- and Coach Eddie Crowder's talented gang in back in the Big Eight race after that 20-14 ambush of No. 2 ranked O.U. at Boulder. Colorado hasn't won in Columbia since 1966, but the Herd could be reckoned a three-touchdown favorite here Saturday.

"They have so many quality players," Coach Al Onofrio mused Monday, "and they are such a complete football team-- it scares me."

But neither Onofrio-- nor his keyed-up Bengals-- "ran scared" at Notre Dame last week. The 30-26 shocker by a four-touchdown underdog probably rates as the biggest upset in Mizzou's 83— year annals.

Now-- which team will have more carry-over sharpness and motivation this Saturday, after a peak effort? Can Mizzou splice together two consistent ball-games back-to-back-- something the Tigers haven't done all year?

Will Colorado be peeking ahead to its showdown scrap with Nebraska in Boulder a week hence? Vacating their mountain retreat, how effective are the Buffaloes as a road team?

Playing on Faurot Field for the first time in four weeks, Al Onofrio's Tigers will have Bruce Berry, slender junior halfback, ready this Saturday-- but sophomore Bill Ziegler is grounded again. This time, a hairline fracture of the hand will idle the 205-pound halfback who was a starter until his injury against Oklahoma State.

Defensive halfbacks Ken Gregory and Steve Yount, casualties at Nebraska, are still questionable after missing the Irish game. Backs Ray Bybee and Chuck Link are not yet ready either. They were injured in the Oklahoma State game three weeks ago.

Colorado will pressure the Tigers' defense with quarterback Ken Johnson's run-pass threat.. and the inside-- outside thrusts of 230-pound fullback Bo Matthews and halfback Charlie Davis. Wingback Jon Keyworth and tight end J.V. Cain are Johnson's prime targets.

Defensively, the Buffs chilled Oklahoma's wishbone operation last week-- an attack that was pacing the nation both in rushing and total offense.

Mizzou leads the all-time series with 23 wins, 10 losses-- and three games have been tied.

Farris Leads Murray State

MURRAY, Ky. — Their first Ohio Valley Conference win back of them, the Murray State Racers will play OVC foe Eastern Kentucky at Richmond Saturday.

The Racers beat East Tennessee 17-6 last Saturday at Murray's Homecoming to run their overall record to 2-4 and their OVC record to 1-3. Eastern, beaten 10-0 by Western Kentucky last Saturday, is 4-3 overall and 2-2 in the conference.

Murray Coach Bill Furgerson said his Racers' win over East Tennessee capped a perfect Homecoming. "The team was determined to win for the former coaches, captains and the alumni watching the game," he said. The players, while appreciating the compliment, were also tired of being called the best 1-4 team in the South. They decided they wanted to be called a good winning team."

Murray State had invited all of its former football coaches and captains back for the game as part of its celebration of its 50th anniversary. Five former coaches and 35 former captains attended.

The Racers scored all their points in the first half and then depended on the defense to keep East Tennessee in check the second. The defense obliged by causing two Buccaneer fumbles inside the Murray 10-yard line. The defense also picked off three of Alan Chadwick's passes in the first half to keep the Bucs in trouble.

Chadwick, the OVC leader in total offense and passing going into the game, was held to 9 completions in 18 attempts for 87 yards.

Safety Paul Coltharp had two of the interceptions and also contributed six tackles and four assists to the Racer cause. Linebacker Bruce Farris had eight tackles and four assists and a fumble recovery. Tackle Jerry Stanley had eight tackles and 2 assists. Farris is a Sikeston, Mo., product and Stanley is from Hayti, Mo.

George Greenfield, the OVC's leading rusher, had 177 yards in 19 rushes to pace the Racer offense. He has 711 yards in 164 rushes for the season. Quarterback Mike Hobbie passed only sparingly but completed four of eight for 56 yards. The Racers had 324 yards total offense to East Tennessee's 279.

Every interior lineman for the Racers graded at least 60 per cent on his assignment, the first time that had happened in many games, according to Furgerson.

Tackle Charlie Carpenter, who Furgerson called the best offensive tackle in the OVC, graded 77 per cent, guard Rodney Pickering 65, tight end Bill Farrell 64, tackle Mark Norrid 61 and center Mike Perry and guard Joe Gloriso 60, Norrid is another Missouri Bootheel product from Malden.

Macaroni, spaghetti, ravioli, noodles, lasagne, etc., can add up to a lot of "pasta." In fact, Americans eat about one billion pounds of these products yearly. Usually made of durum wheat flour, they come in a variety of sizes and 100 or more shapes, The World Almanac notes.

Crews Is New Owner Of Welsh Funeral Home

Raymond Crews, who has been associated with Mrs. H. J. Welsh for 32 years in the operation of Welsch Funeral Home Inc. at 101 W. Gladys St., has assumed full ownership.

Mrs. Welsh is retiring due to advancing age and declining health.

Crews has served as manager and co-owner of the funeral home for five years. The business was established in 1919 by Henry J. Welsh, who died in 1942.

Crews said the funeral home will maintain the same management policies as it has in the past. Future improvements are being planned, he said.

Noranda Accident Free In 100,000 Man Hours

NEW MADRID — One hundred thousand man hours free from industrial lost-time accidents was recently achieved by the carbon operations department of the Noranda Aluminum, Inc. plant near New Madrid.

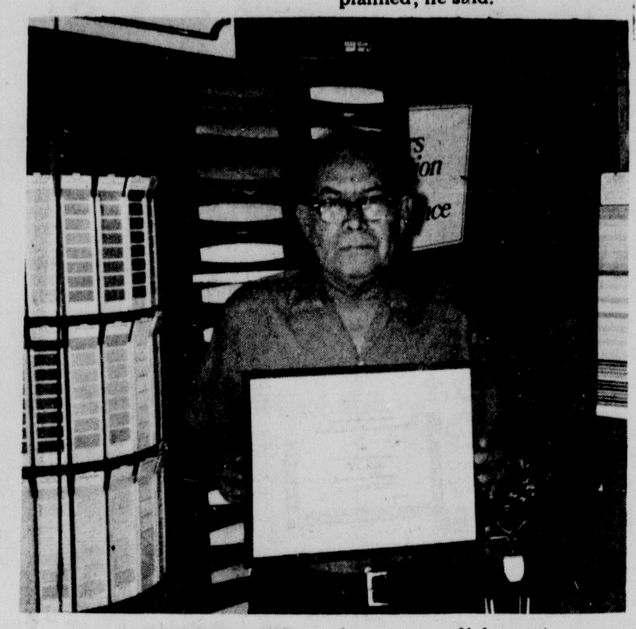
Clint Halstead, plant manager, acknowledged the accomplishment, citing the positive safety attitude maintained by each member of the department.

Accepting a certificate of recognition from Halstead, department superintendent A. O. Pinner noted that the last lost- time accident occurred in September 1971.

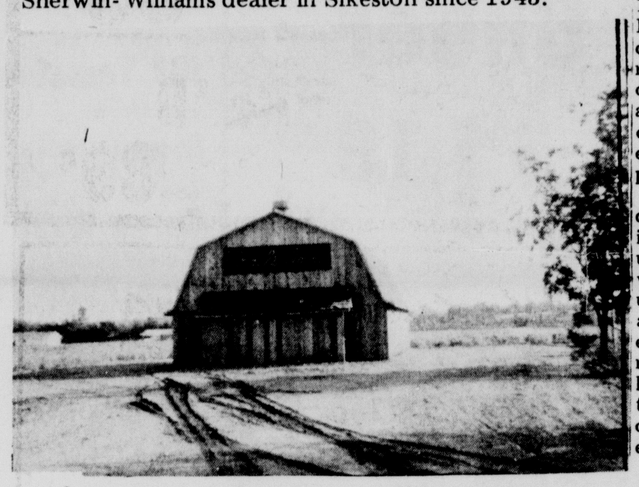
Statistically, the National Safety Council has recorded 245,000,000 man days and more than 9 billion dollars lost to employes and industry in 1971 due to work accidents. During the brief presentation ceremony, Pinner stated, "Our record was achieved as a result of individual and team effort, and marks only the beginning of what we intend to do. Each employe is commended for his part in this achievement."

Carbon operations department responsibilities include river barge and rail unloading, processing of various raw materials and ultimate production of carbon anode and cathode products essential in aluminum reduction. The department handles more then 350,000 tons of material annually, operates equipment which exceeds 1,700 tons of pressure.

The 24-hour a day, seven-day a week operation represents one of five major departments at Noranda.



A CERFITICATE of accomplishment was presented last week to W. C. Reid, owner and manager of Sikeston Paint & Wallpaper Co. at 126 E. Center St. in recognition of outstanding efforts in retailing Sherwin - Williams products. The award was presented by R. T. Phillips of St. Louis, district representative for Sherwin Williams. Reid has been a Sherwin- Williams dealer in Sikeston since 1943.



DEXTER-- James and Larry White of Dexter, owners of Trail's End Restuarant on Highway 114 West plan to open for business by Nov. 1.

Freeman Carter of Busy Bee Lumber Company is being assisted by the White brothers in construction of the building.

The interior features a western decor and walls made of rough pine. Although the restaurant will serve a complete menu, it will specialize in steaks.

Analysts Search For Reason For Sagging Stock Market Values

By CROCKETT SCOTT

"Bright Star, would I were stedfast as thou art."
.....Keats

A bear market in Wall Street? A bull market in the supermarket?

This was an off the cuff analysis by a Chicago securities analyst on Oct. 13, who speculated further that "one of these days the market will have discounted all of the bad news."

At which point, he implied, the bargain hunters will move in and stimulate the averages to the upside.

Of course, there were a lot of red faces among security analysts as the market took another drubbing by seven points or so on the Dow Jones industrials on Oct. 13. There have been a lot of red faces, in fact, on many days during September and early October.

And each day the market goes down, investors, traders and speculators look for a reason. The most favored at the moment, it would seem, is higher short- term interest rates, with the prime rate nearing six per cent at mid—October.

Before that, the most frequent explanation--- and probably a reason with substance-- was the oft repeated denial of progress in peace negotiations following prior reports of success.

During the summer months and into the early fall Sen. George McGovern was blamed for the market's descent. The investor, said the professionals, was aghast at prospects of the South Dakotan at the helm in Washington.

Now, it is repeated in boardrooms not entirely in jest that the stockmarket has been "celebrating" President Nixon's re- election in advance of Nov. 7 by continuing the slide inaugurated by the Democratic standard bearer.

After the election, assuming Nixon is re- elected, the market could get the shakes, according to the thesis of some analysts on the basis that Nixon then could get to work in earnest on restraining inflation--- without having to worry any longer about being re- elected.

Conceivably, he would do this by a more restricitve fiscal policy--- less spending, which, in turn, would curtail revenues and profits.

However, there is another widely held thesis that any administration, Republican as well Democratic, will have to continue with deficit spending for an indefinite period--- at last until such time as the unemployment rate recedes to a point around four per cent.

Still another "explanation" of the stock market is that offered by Democrats in the board rooms. They will tell you that "we always have had bear markets during Republican Administrations; and usually bull markets in Democratic Administrations.

In serious considerations of the state of the stock market, central region investment houses still contend that market weakness has resulted from over emphasis of potentially bad news, rather than objective considerations of the wealth of good news about the economy.

There is widespread professional feeling, for instance, that the fear of a credit crunch in 1973 has been overplayed.

With a rebounding economy, higher interest rates are a natural occurence, they remind. As demand for money increases, it follows that interest charges will move up--- unless an easy money policy is instituted by the Federal Reserve Bank and fiscal restraint practiced by the administration in Washington.

Plains states market analysts see prospects for the Federal Reserve plodding a middle course on interest rates-- making available "enough" money through open market operations and regulation of bank reserves in relation to loans to slow the advance of interest rates, but not being liberal enough to hold short- term interest rates at current levels.

Jaycees Pick Halloween Candy Alternative

CLIFTON PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Concerned about the possibility of tampered candy, the Jaycees and Jayncees of this community north of Albany are urging homeowners to buy and dispense coupons rather than the traditional treats this Halloween.

"We have seen too many things in the papers about people who put things in candy on Halloween night," Mrs. Dean W. Burrows, president of the Jayncees said. "It just scared some of us mothers. The coupons will solve everything. The youngsters can redeem the coupons at the store and pick out the candy they want."

This guide lays out the facts. What technical fields have job openings. Where to write for the names of schools that are best qualified to prepare you for these careers. There's even a section on getting help with tuition money.

Most technicians' jobs pay double what the average high school graduate earns. As much as some college graduates make. So they're surely worth investigating.

Now it doesn't cost you a cent to investigate them. Just send in this ad today.

COOKING-UP with Donna Satterfield

By DONNA SATTERFIELD

Give me the simple life ... and simple foods, and what could be more simple than casseroles and salads, right? You guessed it. I think I can let you in on a couple of smashing casserole recipes, typewriter permitting. And for you bean salad lovers, have I got the beans for you.

Casseroles are great for potluck suppers. Curiously enough, that's where one of the recipes was introduced. But why am I rattling on? The recipes, if you please ...

P. S. Hope you enjoyed Nadine's Bundt cake recipes. She's our New Madrid correspondent and a great cook. Thanks, Nadine.

HAMBURGER NOODLE BAKE

3 cups cooked drained noodles (cook 2 3/4 cups)
1 pound ground beef
1/4 coup cream of mushroom soup
2/3 cup evaporated milk
1/4 pound grated processed American cheese (1 cup)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teasoon pepper
1 cup cracker crumbs
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
350 degrees Serves 4-6

Cook the noodles and brown the ground beef along with the onion. Drain off the drippings. Mix well in a three-quart bowl cream of mushroom soup, evaporated milk, cheese, salt and pepper. Stir in the meat and noodles. Pour into a greased, two-quart baking dish. Top mixture with the cracker crumbs, garlic salt and melted butter. Bake at 350 degrees 25-30 minutes or until bubbly hot.

ASPARAGUS CASSEROLE

2 cans asparagus
6 hard-boiled eggs
1 cup grated cheese
1 cup buttered bread crumbs
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
400 degrees Serves eight

Butter casserole dish and make alternate layers of asparagus, chopped eggs, cheese, bread crumbs and soup. Reserve enough bread crumbs for top. Bake in 400-degree oven for 20-30 minutes and sprinkle with paprika.

FOUR BEAN SALAD SUPREME

1 lb. can of drained green beans
1 lb. can drained kidney beans
1 lb., can drained yellow wax beans
1 10-oz. package frozen lima beans cooked, drained and chilled.
1 medium onion thinly sliced
1 medium green pepper cut in thin strips
2 stalks celery sliced in thin crescents
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup salad oil
2 tablespoons parsley (If you use flakes, use less)
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon basil

Toss vegetables together, then combine rest and pour over bean salad. Chill for 3-4 hours or over night.

One of my trusty fans, Mrs. Anne Sheehan, has sent me a recipe for popcorn balls. This is for the benefit of those who will be making their own goodies for Halloween.

POPCORN BALLS

1/2 pound popcorn
2 cups sugar
1 cup water
1/2 cup white syrup
1 tablespoon butter

Boil ingredients until it strings and makes a soft ball. This takes care of half pound of corn, which should be popped and ready in a large dish pan. Ball in waxed paper.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Vanilla Helps Cut Pesty Paint Fumes

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. R. G. whose family members have hay fever and allergies so that paint fumes bother them. First and always, she should use a latex base paint. It has fewer fumes than an oil base one. A little vanilla can be added to the latex base paint and even a dish of onions can be put in the room being painted to cut the fumes. Always paint with the doors and windows open for plenty of ventilation. To prevent mildew from forming on the walls is a real problem. She could use a waterproof paint. When mildew starts to form wipe it off with a dry cloth and then spray with a disinfectant. In humid weather I often put some moth crystals around and they seem to help.—MARIAN

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. R. G. that a home magazine once published a good method for killing mildew inside and out. Scrub the surface with a solution of three parts of a household trisodium phosphate cleaner, one part strong detergent, two parts chlorine bleach and three parts warm water. Rinse well.—JUANITA

DEAR GIRLS — Juanita's suggestion also is one recommended by some paint companies. As to the other part of Mrs. R. G.'s question, a latex paint has very little odor but the fumes are still there with any paint or after the use of an odor killer. The addition of vanilla will not affect the paint and I personally think vanilla is a good odor remover. A vanilla candle is even stronger than is the liquid and most penetrating. — POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — Does anyone know how to clean wedding cake ornaments? I keep mine under a glass dome but still the lace is turning yellow and appears dirty.—MRS. L.W.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the manufacturers of support hose. I wear them on doctor's orders and find the seam in the reinforced section of the toe has a clumsy place at each side — one falls right over the bunion bone and the other smack on top of the little toe — just the perfect place to make a beautiful corn. It seems that section could be made smaller, the seam less clumsy or something—J. T.

DEAR POLLY — I have a solution for wives whose husbands snore and vice versa. Most snoring is done when a person is lying on his back. My husband is a tall, large man and it was impossible for me to turn him on his side when he was sound asleep. Now I simply reach over, grab the end of the pillow and SLOWLY pull it towards me one or two inches and this turns his head to one side and the snoring stops. Occasionally this movement will disturb the snorer enough that he will voluntarily turn to one side or the other. Either way has worked every time for me.—JOANN

Leaves To Oil

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) A student study shows there is undiscovered oil in a lot of American backyards.

But don't quit work yet.

A group of students at the University of Louisville proved this summer that oil can be produced from leaves.

Armed with a $12,930 National Science Foundation grant and several bags of leaves they collected last year and stored, 12 students set out to determine how they could turn the simple leaf into useful products.

The students produced oil on a small scale — in quantities of grams — using what they called the "bomb" or a high pressure reactor in the corner of their basement laboratory.

By heating the leaves to 400 to 450 degrees to create pressure and injecting hydrogen gas and carbon monoxide, they reduced the leaves to a gooey black substance that left oil when the residue was removed.

"We're not a major threat to the oil companies," quipped Lewis Rowe, 22, one of the students. "We haven't seen the stock market crumble."

Benjamin Barr Lindsey, a judge of the Denver juvenile court for 26 years, was disbarred in the state in 1929 for his views and writings on trial marriage.

Social Security Answers

Q. I was hospitalized last month for 12 days and then released to my home. I must return this month for surgery. Must I again pay the $68.00 deductible when I re-enter the hospital?

A. No. You only pay the deductible one time in each benefit period. A benefit period ends only when you have not been a bed patient in any hospital or skilled nursing home for sixty days or more.

Q. My medical insurance premium was increased from $5.60 a month to $5.80 a month beginning with the month of July, 1972. Do you feel medical insurance is such a great bargain at that price?

A. Actually, the Medical Insurance Program costs $11.60 per month beginning July, 1972, but the Federal Governmant pays one half of that cost, or $5.80. Thus, your contribution of only $5.80 pays for insurance worth $11.60.

Q. I am covered under a group health insurance plan where I work and the company pays the premium. I will be 65 in 6 months but do not plan to retire. Will there be any point in my enrolling for medical insurance?

A. You should check with your company to determine if you will have full coverage after you are 65. Some group policies do not grant full coverage to employees over 65. Also, remember, that if you do not apply for medical insurance within three years of your first opportunity you will be permanently excluded.

Q. I'll be 62 on January 16. I want to retire then and receive a reduced benefit. When can I file my appliation?

A. The earliest date would be October 1. It would be well to file during October, November, or December, so your papers can be processed in time to get your first checks to you when due on February 3.

Q. How long will it take from the time that I file my application until I start getting my checks?

A. This varies based on many factors. The average time now runs about 35 days. That's why we urge you to file your claim 2 or 3 months ahead of your retirement date.

Q. My husband has been ill for 30 years and is dependent upon me for all of his support. When I apply for social security can he qualify for benefits on my record?

A. Yes. To qualify as a dependent husband he must be receiving at least half of his support from you when you apply for benefits. He can qualify for a reduced benefit when he is 62 or a full benefit when he is 65.

To Whom Is Congressman Responsible?

By REP. BILL BURLISON
10th DISTRICT

There seems to be a view prevailing in some quarters that the Representative be accountable to the Washington lobbyists. One of the most active of those lobbyists is Ralph Nader. Typical of all lobbyists, no one elects him to office. He is responsible only to those who finance his existence and his activities. He is a lawyer who, so far as I know, has never practiced law, nor had a job. He has never served in Congress, nor on a Congressional staff. He has never been elected to public office.

He has now conducted a "study" certain to get him more publicity that all previous ones. I refer to his "investigation" of the Congress. He says the results will be released just before the November election, in order to have greatest political impact.

He submitted to each member of the Congress a book of 633 essay type questions covering several hundred pages. This obviously would require many weeks of time of the Congressman and his staff. The proposed program also consisted of many hours interview time that the Congressman was to give to college students who were conducting the "investigation".

If you are in suspense as to what my reaction to all this was, let me hurriedly say that I did not participate. Since I was unable to talk directly with Mr. Nader, I advised him, through a member of his staff, that he would be treated by me as any Washington lobbyist. That is, he could interview me himself in my office, consonant with my busy schedule and limited time. His staff member promptly declined this invitation.

Before the public swallows the content of this "investigation", it should know some facts and background. Mr. Nader gained his renown from massive news media coverage as the great consumer advocate who exposes automobile and appliance defects. He owns no car, nor TV set, however, and lives in a run- down Washington apartment. Let's briefly take a look at some case histories.

In response to Nader's charge that the Corvair was dangerously unstable, the Department of Transportation's National Highway Safety Administration conducted a two- year study on the Corvair. The investigation concluded that "the handling and stability performance of the 1960- 63 Corvair does not result in an abnormal potential for loss of control or rollover, and its performance is at least as good as that of some contemporary vehicles, both foreign and domestic." In no government test did a Corvair roll over. It has also been determined that "the Corvair was involved in a lower percentage of rollover accidents that other light domestic cars."

In reviewing the materials submitted by the Nader group, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration noted that Nader had submitted letters from three automotive engineers relating to Corvair's stability. The government called the documents contradictory and unfair, because the engineers were commenting on data obtained in a GM test of an experimental model Corvair which was intentionally turned over.

In the goverment's review of the Ford Motor Company films submitted by Mr. Nader, it was led to believe that the tests were biased in favor of the Falcon, and that the Corvair driver apparently was intentionally trying to get it to spin. It noted all the spins took place right in front of the cameras.

So called "No— Fault" Car Insurance has been the subject of discussion in the Congress in recent months, and legislation on this subject was defeated in the Senate in August. Mr. Nader has been unusually quiet on this, one of the most controversial "consumer issues" in recent years. No— fault insurance was strongly opposed by the American Trail Lawyers Association. It is ironical that Nader's inaction came as the American Trial Lawyers Association voted to donate $10,000 to Mr. Nader's auto safety work, plus an additional $10,000 to finance an index of automobile defects.

Soon after Mr. Nader arrived in Australia on Monday, July 3 1972, he criticized the country's auto safety rules as being behind the times, and its libel laws as inhibiting criticism. Australian Prime Minister William McMahon ably described the situation, "He has been in Australia 24 hours and sets himself up as judge of Australia without a proper knowledge of the country and its people.

Nader's Center for Automotive Safety wrote to Ford Motor Company criticizing and giving examples of eleven alleged control arm failures on Ford cars. The Automotive Safety Director of Ford later reported that the Center's letter contained "a number of inaccuracies and uncorroborated claims." Specifically, one of the Center's studies did not even involve a Ford car.

In 1970, Mr. Nader's tax exempt Center for the Study of Responsible Law sponsored a national essay contest on the subject of corporate responsibility. First prize was $750. After several months, Donald S. Gordon, a contestant, received a letter from the Center stating that the prizes would not be awarded because there had been too few entrants. Upon further investigation, Gordon learned that he was the sole entrant. He, therefore, reasoned that the $750 was his. The Center refuses to give him the money and he has now filed suit against Nader.

With respect to the study of Congress, one Member who participated fully with Nader found twenty six (26) factual errors in the resume of his report. Some observers feel, however, that the most unfair factor is that its purpose is to discredit incumbents without any analysis of the record or qualifications of the candidate challenging the Congressman.

Please do not interpret this to mean that Mr. Nader has never accomplished anything. It is likely he has made some worthwhile contributions. The purpose of the newsletter is to aid in answering the questions:

How credible is Mr. Nader's "investigation" of Congress?

Should your Congressman be held responsible to Mr. Nader or other Capitol lobbyists, or should he be accountable to his constituents?

Let me assure you that your Congressman will continue to look toward the citizens of Missouri's Tenth Congressional District, and nowhere else, for guidance and direction.

Coffee Corner
by Cherie

I was watching a group of children playing the other day and envying them their innocence and laughter, when another youngster appeared on the scene and the crowd suddenly turned on this one child like a pack of dogs. How sad, I guess we really lose our innocence the day we're born — or do we really ever have any at all? I could sympathize with this wee one who had so longed to join in the game of football with the others, and could still feel the intense pain I had suffered on occasions when as a child I had been tormented by my contemporaries and had come home crying and sobbing to my mother, "They say I'm skinny and I have long black hair on my arms and they don't want to play with me!" You can never explain jealousy to a child. I never understood until I was grown that I hadn't done anything to make them hate me so but perhaps the fact that I was dressed a little different than they had prompted all this. I certainly could have cared less about the clothing, my main interest then had simply been to be included and liked. How cruel children are, and how much more cruel are adults, (and God forgive me, I am just as guilty, if not more so because I dislike gossip so much and yet will often take part in it myself), who sit at the bridge tables and pass around the latest item, or who take apart the newest divorce, and who are all so smug and gloating inside that this rumor doesn't concern us, we're safe this time! And how cruel we can be even unintentionally — how sometimes we can just by ignoring someone when they have a special need of you, when only a few minutes of our time, or a compliment, or a kiss if it's a loved one would be all the difference in the world to them and we pass this opportunity by because we're too busy to take the time to see this need.

I'm usually not so philosophical, but the little incident with the children brought such a flood of memories back to me, that I thought it might be good for all of us to stop and think how good life is to us, and how much more wonderful it makes us feel to bring joy instead of grief into someone's heart. After all, Thanksgiving is just around the corner, and I don't think it would hurt any of us to count our blessings early this year.

Pair Apply Classical Piano To Country Music

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It's no wonder Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe nearly fell off their piano benches when asked to play country music with a classical flair.

After all, Whittemore and Lowe are one of the world's most brilliant classical pianist teams — and combining their talents with country music wasn't exactly a first class idea as they saw it.

"Jack, right off the bat, said 'No way.' We knew of the Nashville Sound and thought there's no way we could do that with our nine-foot grand pianos," recalled Whittemore.

But the game musicians gave it a whirl anyway. And after three weeks of backbreaking 15-hour-a-day work they tested their new product on one of country music's finest artists.

The occasion was a country music awards dinner by SESAC, a nationwide long licensing firm.

"The response has just been unbelievable," said Whittemore, who's been playing professionally alongside Lowe for more than a quarter century.

Alice Prager, head of SESAC, conceived the idea. She asked Whittemore and Lowe to interrupt their concert tour briefly and try it out. Actually, it wasn't the first time the famous piano duo had taken a nonclassical form of music and added classical flavor to it. Their first attempt at such a venture was in 1946 with pop music. And they've been doing that ever since.

But they concede that country music presented a much different challenge.

"In the first place," said Whittemore, "the audience might think, 'Oh God, this is going to be something rickyticky.'"

"It was very difficult to work out, but not because the notes threw us," said Lowe.

"We have to try to convey the emotion that's in the country song and because most country songs are based primarily on lyrics it became a real challenge," Whittemore added.

At that moment, Lowe chimed in: "That's what we like about the country music and bluegrass we've heard. It's very direct and emotional."

Emotional was the precise description of the SESAC performance. After the two played "Honey," "Crystal Chandeliers," and "He Touched Me," the audience was visibly moved to tears.

So, not to keep everyone in a blue funk too long, Whittemore and Lowe quickly embarked on a version of "Jackson" that had the crowd snapping fingers and tapping feet.

"These are melodious tunes," said Lowe. "They're appealing and it doesn't matter who you ar playing for."

"We'll continue doing this with the ones that are audience-tested and the ones we like," he continued.

"Asked why he was hesitant in the beginning, Lowe explained:

"At first I said this is all off. I was embarrassed that we might put our stamp on something that one day we might be ashamed of. It was artistic pride."

"It was three weeks before we began to think this is all right," Whittemore interrupted.

"But once we applied our techniques then we were on easy street," said Lowe.

"Not easy street," Whittemore quickly added. "But at least we were on our way."

The idea behind the entire venture was to make an album for the Country Music Hall of Fame archives in Nashville.

"But what started out to be a noncommercial venture was turned into something that's going to be quite big," said Mrs. Prager.

She said she was not in a position, at this time, to divulge what the future plans are for the album.

"We don't know either," said Whittemore, "we're dying to find out ourselves."

Board To Support Engineers

ST. LOUIS (AP)–The Missouri Water Resources Board has voted to support the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in a legal controversy over the Meramec Dam project. But Missouri Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth says his office will not support the Corps because it did not present an adequate environmental impact statement.

Normally the attorney general's office handles legal matters for state agencies.

The Sierra Club recently filed suit in U.S. District Court challenging the reservoir and recreation project on the Meramec River southwest of St. Louis.

Clifford L. Summers, executive director of the water resources board, said today that board members voted last Friday to help the Corps in any way possible, including intervention in the court case.

Danforth's office defended the Corps in connection with legal action brought against the Truman Dam project in western Missouri. But he said the environmental impact statement for the Truman project was lengthy while the one for the Meramec project is only eight pages long.

BOOKLET TELLS HOW TO CORRECT NOISE IN PLUMBING

Noisy plumbing is more than just a nuisance. It costs you money, the Plumbing-Heating- cooling Information Bureau points out. That's because noise is caused by some defect or unusually hard wear on parts of the system.

There are generally three types of noise – water hammer, whistling and chattering. Water hammer is the thump you hear when faucets are turned off abruptly. It's corrected with an air chamber, short length of pipe or in special cases, a shock absorber installed at the appropriate place.

Chattering is usually caused by loose pipe, worn faucet washers or other loose parts. Whistling is due to the speed of water flowing through too-small pipe. It's most common at bends and tees in the pipe and can usually be corrected with a pressure- reducing valve.

A booklet that gives you detailed information on plumbing noise problems as well as dozens of other tips on how to take care of your plumbing is available for 25 cents plus an 8 cent stamp from the Plumbing- Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

LIVING AND LEARNING

by Karen Jackel
(Avon W348/$1.25/ 224pp.)

The disintegration of a "perfect marriage" and the coming to womanhood of a distinctly American heroine are the themes of Karen Jackel's unusual novel LIVING AND LEARNING. It is the story of Carolyn Kay, whose life begins with the removal of her braces, transforming her into a beauty. She makes a disastrous marriage to a neurotic young doctor, comes dangerously close to emotional breakdown, and finally surfaces on the brink of life rough and poignant, LIVING AND LEARNING is about how difficult it is to share a life with other real people, how painful to become real oneself.

"Karen Jackel is among the most promising new writers I have encountered in recent years ... She has the driving narrative power of Joyce Carol Oates, and finally living and learning with Carolyn Berg is an actual experience. The final chapters are poignant, and Carolyn's assessment of her past, present, and future is very moving. The conversations between Carolyn and her husband are painfully exact," –David Madden, author of CASSANDRA SINGING and BROTHERS IN CONFIDENCE

Miss Jackel's work has been published in BEST AMERICAN SHORT STORIES edited by Martha Foley and David Burnett. Her short stories have been published in such periodicals as Harper's Bazaar, Epoch and Event. Currently teaching English at Queensborough Community College, she was a resident at Yaddo this past summer.

LIVING AND LEARNING is an Avon original not available in any other edition.

U.S. Command Uses Hard Sell To Get Gi's To Vote

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command has a hard-sell campaign to get out the GI vote in November. But some military disc jockeys who don't think the sell is hard enough are pushing their own punchier spots: "Put up or shut up!"

"We don't have dependents around, so we can talk in the vernacular," said Lt. Col. Felix L. Casipit, head of the American Forces Vietnam Network, of AFVN.

"We're talking to the American military fighting man so we can say, 'Get off your butt,' and not offend some woman doing her housecleaning."

Spec. 4 John Allgood, an AFVN disc jockey, said he decided to revamp a spot announcement that said, 'Listen fella, vote!"

"I just didn't feel the spot was hard hitting enough," he said.

The Allgood version, broadcast repeatedly these days, says: "You're old enough to vote! So what? What are you going to do about it? Sit on your duff until after the elections and then complain about how the rest of us voted?

"The armed forces have made an all-out effort to get you to vote ... But no, you prefer to sit and wait until after the elections, and then you'll gripe ... That's a lot of bull and you know it."

Allgood, a former recordspinner for a of Chicago station, said: "So many guys say, 'I don't like this. I don't like that.' And they don't vote. I think it's a crime. It's so easy to fill out an absentee ballot form."

Since May, the military has been campaigning in the field, on radio and television and through the armed forces newspaper Stars and Stripes to get out the vote.

The first push was for registration with an outline of each state's requirements. This was followed with the procedures for absentee balloting and a request to the GIs to ask their families for clippings from hometown papers so they could learn about local issues.

Every night during prime time, the military television network is running several one-second, subliminal-type spots. Each says "vote" — one superimposed on an outline of the United States, another on a bikini-clad girl.

Col. Thomas E. Hall Jr., head of the U.S. Command's voting campaign, said the military keeps no count of how many of the 30,000 GIs in Vietnam are voting.

"We don't want to be in the position of coercing anybody into voting," he said. "My own opinion is that there is considerable interest in the election at this time, but I have no statistics to back it up."

One anafu in the voting campaign has been the failure of some communities to send absentee ballots to servicemen. Hall said he had received several queries about this, but the military could do nothing about it.

New Option For Army Enlistment

The Department of the Army has announced that the Third United States Infantry Division (The Old Guard), based in Washington, D.C., is now part of the special unit of Choice Enlistment Option.

Sgt. C. L. McCoy, local Army recruiter, explained that, under the new option, an enlistee can specify the Third Infantry, and if accepted, be guaranteed a three- year stabilized tour in the Washington, D.C., area at time of enlistment.

The Army's oldest regiment, The Old Guard today is charged with a dual mission: it is the Army's official ceremonial unit and it provides security for the nation's capitol in times of national emergency or civil disturbance.

Often referred to as "The President's Own", The Old Guard is the official Army honor guard and escort for the President. Its members are a familiar sight in the nation's capitol, as they are responsible for the conduct of all military ceremonies held at the White House, the Pentagon and National Memorials.

Armed Forces

RAPID CITY, S. D. – Airman First Class D. Fred Heiserman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale F. Heiserman of R. R. 1, Lawrence Kan., and his unit at Ellsworth AFB, S.D., have been honored for rescue and recovery work during and after the flash flood that devastated nearly 30 per cent of nearby Rapid City June 9-10.

Airman Heiserman is a precision measuring equipment specialist with the Strategic Air Command's 28th Bomb Wing, which received the U. S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award for exceptionally meritorious achievement from June 9 to July 10.

The flood, triggered just before midnight June 9 when heavy rainfall in the surrounding hills caused the Lake Dam to break, took at least 216 lives and sent property damage estimates beyond the $100 million mark.

Manpower Projects Announced

KANSAS CITY– Grants to Missouri manpower projects totaling $1,206,270 have been announced by the U.S. Department of Labor office in Kansas City.

Neal B. Hadsell, regional manpower administrator, said most of the funds will go to continuing projects.

Neighborhood Youth Corps projects in four areas were allocated $591,690 to continue programs for 417 disadvantaged youth, both in and out of school.

Operation Mainstream projects in four communities were granted $369,080 to provide work experience for mature workers who have experienced chronic unemployment.

The Missouri Division of Employment Security received two grants. One added $85,000 to its program for on- the- job training in private industry. It arranges for employers to provide such training and reimburses them for expenses. This program, called JOBS-Optional (JOP), was modified last year to make it more readily available to returning veterans.

The other grant of $99,000 will enable the Division of Employment Security to continue operation of Gatehouses in St. Louis and Kanas City for returning graduates of the Job Corps. The Gatehouses help the youngsters with employment and other reorientation.

Hadsell also announced approval of a contract under the job Opportunities in the Business Sector (JOBS) program, under which Reinell Boats, Inc., will hire and train 50 disadvantaged workers at its Poplar Bluff plant.

Since the JOBS program is a joint effort of the Labor Department and the National Alliance of Businessmen, the department reimburses employers for extraordinary expense in hiring and training workers with little or no work experience.

Reimbursement to Reinell Boats, Inc., may reach $61,500 over the nine- month term of the contract.

Portageville was also a Southeast Missouri town which received grants totaling $255,300. The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation's NYC project with 250 enrollees received $101,280 and the Operation Mainstream project, $154,020.

Hayti Chief Injured In Boat Mishap

HAYTI– Police Chief Fred (Fritz) McKay was injured on Sunday when the boat he was piloting hit an underwater bank in the Boatclub Chute, throwing him into the windshield. The right side of his face was seriously cut and his cheekbone and nose were broken.

He was operated on at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis on Tuesday.

McKay, Neely Mitchell Jr., Harold Jansen, Hugh James and Clint Perry were in the boat when the accident happened. Even though the boat, a jet powered, v- type hull is capable of high speeds, it was not traveling above a moderate rate when striking the bank.

Unable to get the boat off the bank, two of the men waded out and found two fishermen who took the group back to the Triangle Boat Club where their cars were parked and McKay was rushed to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital, then on to Memphis.

Jansen sustained a bruised chest after being thrown into the windshield, too. The others were shaken up but not injured. The group had just finished building and putting into position some duck blinds.

U.S. Bombing Below The 20th Parallel

SAIGON (AP) — The United States reduced its fighter - bomber strikes against North Vietnam again Tuesday and confined them to the southern panhandle below the 20th parallel in a sort of a partial bombing halt aimed at improving the atmosphere for peace negotiations, informed sources said today.

The Air Force's big B52 bombers resumed attacks on supply caches in the panhandle after a 24-hour diversion to targets in South Vietnam. But the U. S. Command said the smaller fighter-bombers flew only about 100 strikes, all below the 20th parallel, which is 75 miles south of Hanoi.

The curtailment of the air war began Sunday, when the total of fighter - bomber strikes dropped from an average of 250-300 to about 140, and about 120 were flown on Monday.

Although the northeast monsoons always reduce the air attack on the North at this time of year, informed sources say orders from President Nixon have curtailed it even more. It is believed that Nixon does not want to acknowledge the curtailment publicly because that would tend to inhibit his freedom to resume heavy strikes on the Hanoi-Haiphong area should the current peace negotiations collapse.

Meanwhile, the second fatal accident aboard a U. S. navy ship off the coast of Vietnam in less than a month killed four American Tuesday night, injured 22 and wrecked nine jet fighter-bombers worth $30 million. Another sailor was reported missing, presumably overboard.

On the South Vietnamese battlefields, Communist forces rained scores of rockets into the Da Nang air base, an adjoining village, a provincial capital 15 miles south of Da Nang and a district town 40 miles northwest of Saigon. An American civilian and 26 South Vietnamese were killed, and two Americans and 109 Vietnamese were wounded.

The naval accident occurred aboard the carrier Midway. The landing gear of an A6 Intruder collapsed as it returned from a mission, and the jet ran wild, plowing into parked planes and crewmen on the bow of the ship and starting a small fire.

The other recent naval accident occurred on Oct. 1 aboard the cruiser Newport News. An explosion ripped through a gun turret as it was firing, killing 20 crewmen and injuring 37.

McGovern Says Of Sabotage Fund

'Whole Ugly Mess In Nixon's Lap'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern said today the reported involvement of White House aide H. R. Haldeman in Republican political sabotage and espionage "places the whole ugly mess...right squarely in the lap of Richard Nixon."

McGovern told a breakfast of labor supporters in Milwaukee that the report, published by the Washington Post, should be alarming to all Americans.

"...That issue alone is enough to retire Mr. Nixon and Mr. Agnew from the White House," he said.

McGovern, quoting the Post, said the accounts "of political espionage, of political sabotage, of corruption of all kinds of our political process, now traces right back to H. R. Haldeman in the White House."

"Now," McGovern said, "this places the whole ugly mess of corruption, of espionage, of sabotage, of wiretapping, right squarely in the lap of Richard Nixon," McGovern said.

The Post said Haldeman was one of five close Nixon associates who controlled a secret campaign spying and sabotage fund.

The Post said it based the report on information from federal investigators and accounts of sworn testimony given to a grand jury investigating the June 17 break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate building.

The newspaper said it has been told that Haldeman, a Nixon aide for 16 years, and the four others authorized to make payments from the secret fund were identified in grand jury testimony by Hugh W. Sloan Jr., who quit as treasurer of the Nixon campaign organization shortly after the Watergate break-in.

Deputy White House press secretary Gerald L. Warren declined comment on the Post report. He referred newsmen to a White House statement issued to the Post, saying that "the reference to Bob Haldeman is untrue."

In today's account and in previous reports, the Post named these others as controllers of the fund:

—John N. Mitchell, former attorney general and the first director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

—Maurice H. Stans, former Commerce Secretary and now director of the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

—Jeb Stuart Magruder, onetime White House aide and now deputy director of the Nixon campaign committee.

—Herbert W. Kalmbach, described by the Post as Nixon's personal attorney. The White House disputes that description, but says Kalmbach has handled some personal legal matters for Nixon.

The sabotage fund, according to the Post, was a cache of as much as $700,000 held in Stans' office safe.

The Post said it has learned that all five men have been questioned by the FBI about disbursements from the fund.

Sloan, the ex-treasurer of the campaign, has told the grand jury that one who received money from the fund was G. Gordon Liddy, the Post said. Liddy is one of seven men under indictment in connection with the Watergate break-in, the incident which set off the disclosures of an alleged GOP sabotage ring.

The Post quoted federal investigators as saying that expenditures of hundreds of thousands of dollars—all approved by either Haldeman, Stans, Mitchell, Magruder or Kalmbach—were made from the fund to finance an undercover operation aimed at discrediting Democratic candidates.

Meantime, Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst told newsmen Tuesday that the Justice Department has no "credible evidence" that federal laws were violated by the alleged acts of sabotage and that he feels no probe of the allegations is warranted.

Break-in Suspects Are Held

BLOOMFIELD — Five men are being held in Stoddard County jail for investigation into Tuesday night's break-in of Nickens Pharmacy here, the second break-in at the store in two weeks.

Being held are Stephen Charles Glass, 23, Fred Randall Bode, 20, James Leonard Coomer, 25, Francis Wayne Maupin, 27, and Andrew Lee Williamson, 27, all of St. Louis.

The men were seen about 7 p.m. allegedly prying open the back door to the store. A witness, Luther Burns Jr. of Bloomfield, Route Two, gave police the license number of the car the men used.

They were arrested at 12:30 a.m. today by Bollinger County sheriff's deputies at a tavern near Lutesville, after the Lutesville city marshall recognized the license number on their car.

The Bloomfield break-in was the latest in a long string of drug store break-ins throughout Southeast Missouri. Police say they are trying to connect the five men with the break-ins.

Burglar Takes $30

A burglary which netted about $30 in change from coin machines at Todd's Uniform Rental, 400 N. West St., was reported to police this morning.

Police said five employes may be charged with petit larceny for taking candy and cigarettes from the machines. Police said they did not break into the machines, but took the merchandise after they found the machines open. One of the employes was caught by police as he walked out of the building with 40 packs of cigarettes stuffed under his coat.

The burglars broke open two candy machines, two coffee machines and a cigarette machine. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in a window on the southeast side of the building.

Billings Named Appeals Judge

KENNETT — William H. Billings of Kennett was appointed Tuesday to the Missouri Court of Appeals, Springfield division, by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Flake L. McHaney, also of Kennett, was named judge of the 35th Judicial Circuit, filling a vacancy left by Billings.

The 35th Judicial Circuit consists of Dunklin and Stoddard counties. McHaney and Billings are former law partners, and Billings is a former classmate and close friend of Gov. Hearnes.

The judgeship on the Springfield Appeals Court was created by the Missouri Legislature this year and becomes effective Jan. 1, 1973. McHaney has been appointed to fill Billings' unexpired term until 1975 general election, at which time voters will determine who will fill the remaining two years.

McHaney, who is a senior partner of the Kennett law firm of McHaney and Welman, said he will dissolve his partnership before assuming the bench post in January.

CHIANG AT 85

According to both a World War I British army song and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, "Old soldiers never die; They just fade away." In the post-World War II era, however, a few old soldiers like Eisenhower, de Gaulle, and Patton have died but not faded. And at least three others -- Mao Tse-tung, Franco, and Chiang Kai-shek -- have done neither. Chaing, the elder soldier-statesman of the latter group, will celebrate his 85th birthday anniversary on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Except for a brief period of retirement, Chian has been the de facto ruler of the Chinese Nationalists since 1927. He became titular head of China in 1943 and was elected President for a six-year term in March 1948. The Communist takeover of the mainland forced Chiang to complete his term on the island of Taiwan. Since then, the National Assembly has elected him to four consecutive six-year terms. In his most recent victory, March 21, 1972, Chiang captured 99.9 per cent of the vote. It would have been 100 per cent except that eight of the 1,316 assembly ballots were blank. Chiang's triumph, though expected, was overshadowed by reports of poor health and of a desire to relinquish the burdens of power.

The octogenarian leader has turned over most of his duties to his 62-year-old son, Chiang Ching-kuo. As premier, the younger Chiang holds the second highest position in the Taiwan government. President Chiang's last public appearance was at his inauguration on May 20. This year, for the first time since 1949, he missed the Oct. 10 National Day celebration. His absence sparked rumors that his son would soon be in complete charge of the country's affairs.

Chiang Kai-shek's last years have not been happy ones. The Communist regime in Peking has been accepted by the United Nations and a majority of its members as the legitimate government of China. Even Chiang's old friend and once-stalwart defender, Richard Nixon, has made overtures to the People's Republic. On Taiwan, the Nationalist war cry of recovering the mainland seems to be little more than the meaningless slogan of a few old men. And the native Taiwanese, who outnumber the Nationalist Chinese by almost 8 to 1, are demanding more of a voice in running the country.

ALLENDE'S POLITICS
GETTING CHILLY
RESPONSE

The Unidad Popular (UP) coalition of Chilean chieftain Salvador Allende recently suffered its fourth electoral defeat in as many months, giving the opposition an almost two -thirds majority. Why has the "man of the people" been turned down by them?

Mainly because he is not a "man of the people." His associates live up to Marxist elitism. Their wives are well-dressed, and usually driven in posh cars by chauffeurs. Allende's aides no longer live with the people in working class neighborhoods. They prefer villas in exclusive areas of town.

Allende himself is hardly self-denying. His private secretary, Miriam de Ropert, has eighteen cars registered in her name, plus numerous apartments, estates and mansions.

One of Allende's most expensive villas, "Canaveral," is said to be the headquarters of his personal bodyguards. This strong-arm squad, trained by Castro, is innocently called the "Group of Personal Friends."

To hold power in the face of growing discontent, Allende is openly courting the military. His latest move was to appoint Gen. Pedro Palacios as Minister of Mines.

Besides bestowing favors on his entourage and the military, Allende has aggravated Chileans by surrounding himself with foreigners. They include North Koreans, Poles, Russians and, of course, Cubans.

Even more disturbing to Chileans is the economy. The scarcity of goods has led to housewife demonstrations and a strike at the nationalized Chuquicamata copper mine. The strike at the world's largest open pit copper mine was the first in six years.

The two-day strike by 8,000 workers cost Chile $1.6 million. When Allende got them back on the job, 36 supervisors resigned because of the "chaotic administration" by Allende appointees. Their loss further reduced mine productivity.

The peasants are likewsie unhappy. Collectivazation has dislocated agriculture, and basic foods are often as scarce in the countryside as in the city.

With food and goods shortages, it might be expected that Chile will import its necessities. This is doubtful because of more Allende intervention. The Minister of Labor raised longshoremen rates 35 per cent. The Chilean Port Authority hiked port charges 37 per cent. Pilotage charges were increased 129 per cent. Still higher freight rates are due this fall.

Added to these shipping difficulties is currency exchange. Chile has a varying, deliberately confusing system that never uses the official rate. Naturally, the U. S. gets the least favorable rate, 15.8 escudos to the dollar, when the official rate is 28.

Cashing In On Democratic Actions

Last week, The White House and President Nixon sent out a letter to Social Security recipents, taxpayer-paid postage of course, telling them about the 20 percent benefit bill the President had signed, and how it would benefit them. The President also told how he is attempting to protect those same Senior Citizens from rent increases.

What the President conventiently and politically failed to mention was that the Social Security increase was passed by a Democratic House and a Democratic Senate, and that he, President Nixon, signed it under protest. He wasn't for giving more financial aid to the elderly, but he was glad to try to take credit for something the Democrats did, and which he personally opposed.

No wonder the incumbent President has all the advantages in a campaign when such tactics as this are used by him.

DIVERSE DIVERS

Plunging into water is a sort that surprising number of animals seem to enjoy, like humans, purely for the fun of it. Dogs of water- retriever breeds happily leap off piers to splash down among human bathers, even when there is nothing to retrieve. Otters slide into pools from mud or snow banks. Penguins crowd aboard ice floes, then dive off in fast succession like a line of black dominoes toppling. Elk cows wade into mountain pools and splash with their front hoofs. An unexpected spectacle is the mighty bison, a hump-shouldered heavyweight, jumping like a frisky calf into belly deep water, then climbing out to jump again. But perhaps the most startling of all is horses' capacity for high-diving. First discovered by an American trainer almost a century ago, the willingness of well- trained horses to jump into water from heights of 30 feet or more furnished entertainment for generations of carnival- goers. Unaccompanied, one famous pair of all- white horses would climb a ramp to a diving platform on a scaffold, place their forefeet on a lowered front ledge, then jump off. It was no bellywhopper, but a real chest- down, front- legs-forward dive. Surfacing after brief immersion in the 12-foot water, the horses would shake their dripping heads and swim to an exit ramp. Only a few years ago, three handsome brown mules were still high-diving at country fairs.

COMPROMISE ON BUSING

The United States Senate has approved what is supposed to be a compromise between opponents and proponents of school busing. It is, instead, an exercise in political sleight- of-hand.

Two things may be accomplished by the Mansfield-Scott amendment if it survives the Senate- House conference: Some senators may get off the election- year hook by persuading their constituents that they have struck a blow for neighborhood schools. Secondly, the movement for a constitutional amendment agains t busing may have been undercut.

But the effect on busing, itself, would be minimal.

The Mansfield- Scott amendment would forbid the use of federal funds for busing unless school officials voluntarily asked for the money. Faced with the added expense of a court- ordered busing plan, however, it is unlikely that officials would not seek help.

Other provisions would: Prohibit busing that would be harmful to children or that woul;place them in schools inferior to those nearest their homes; bar federal employes from requiring the use of state and local funds for busing "unless constitutionally required"; and delay court-ordered busing plans pending appeal, or until June 30, 1973.

These provisions are facades. The Supreme Court already has placed safety restrictions on busing. It would be practically impossible to prove in court, before the plan in question was put into operation, whether one school would be inferior to another — the purpose of any desegregation plan is to improve schools. And tying funds to constitutional requirements neither adds nor detracts from what the courts are doing.

The only benefit that anti-busing forces would gain would be from delay. But where courts found that school boards had not acted in good faith, the demands of equity might take precedence, as they did in a series of Mississiippi cases when the Supreme Court said "desegregate now, litigate later."

It is not unrealistic to suppose that the senators are worldly and intelligent enough to realixe the limitations of their "compromise." If anyone should take comfort from the legislation, it is the supporter of busing as a tool to achieve desegregation.

The nation at large does not want busing to disrupt the neighborhood school system. Most people probably would like either Congress or the Supreme Court to prevent his from happening. The Seante, in its political wisdom (or desperation), has tried to look good doing nothing.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

A good example of how permissiveness can lead from dissent, to license, to outright anarchy could be seen in a recent "national convention" of members of a group known as Students for a Democratic Society..SDS. Seven hundred young people attended the convention. They passed a resolution calling for "support for (military) deserters and their demand for amnesty." The resolution further stated, "The armed forces of the United States as presently constituted are the primary instrument of American imperialism and are used to oppress people in the United States and other countries." It concluded by resolving that members of the SDS"...initiate and support activities directed toward creating a radical political consciousness among the members of the armed forces."

What may be even more offensive to the thoughtful citizen than the goals of the SDS is the fact that the misdirected young people held their convention on the campus of Michigan State University. Two members of the Michigan State Legislature toured the campus during the event. One of them said, "I never thought I'd see anything like this at a state-supported university." Advocating revolution should not be confused with the right to dissent. Apparently, the SDS members were never taught the difference.

PROVEN BY EXPERIENCE

Political expediency may end by using the lofty goal of "tax reform" as a cloak to disguise a steady drift toward new devices for tightening the squeeze of the taxation wringer on the most productive elements in the country.

While Congress is in the midst of considering proposals to curb or eliminate the percentage depletion allowance provision of the tax laws for petroleum producers, some hard truths about oil exploration have just been released by "Oil Facts", a publication of the American Petroleum Institute. It notes that dry holes cost the oil industry more than $830 million a year, and the cost is going up rapidly. "Funds invested in unsuccessful drilling projects," it says, "in the years 1959 through 1966 totaled an estimated $6.5 million." A release from the Western Oil and Gas Assocation points out that for the first time in 40 years, under the impetus and emotion of the drive for tax reform, percentage depletion is in danger. This means that in the guise of tax reform taxes may be allowed to dry up to the seed corn of the oil industry—the capital that producers count upon for the funds to continue exploratory efforts that are absolutely vital in a nation that runs on oil.

We seem to have forgotten what the late President John F. Kennedy said almost 10 years ago, "Its (the depletion allowance) purpose and its value are first of all to provide a rate of exploration, development and production adequate to our national security and the requirements of our economy. The oil depletion allowance has served us well by this test."

SENSIBLE SALTING
PROGRAM IS URGED

Producers of deicing salt are looking ahead to next winter in developing a program that recommends less but more sensible use of their product.

Concerned about possible environmental side effects if its product is misused, the industry has announced a "Sensible Salting Program" that encourages proper salt storage and application, monitored by local citizen committees.

To head off potential side effects on nearby vegetation and local water supplies that may be caused by improper storage or application, the Salt Institute, which conducts the program for participating companies, has produced a packet of material on correct salting practices. The Institute assists in setting up local citizen committees and giving them projects that provide environmental safeguards while insuring that winter roads are kept open and safe for drivers and pedestrians.

Some sample suggestions include checking of spreaders for accuracy of calibration, controls of salt storage piles to insure that they are covered and drained, conferences with public works directors to review spreading practices, checking reports of chloride levels in public water supplies, and the encouragement of planting salt-resistant vegetation near roads.

WELFARE

The U.S. Senate, thank goodness, has found its soul. By a 53- 34 vote, that august body has killed a resolution that would provide a family of a fixed income of $2,600 whether a member was was employed or loafing. The guaranteed income proposal of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D.—Conn. would not have stipulated work as a requirement for relief. The Senate should not have to muster incentive for work. It should be a natural desire on the part of the people. If they don't have that incentive, they should not be recipients of public funds.

Sen. Russell Long, D.— La., opposed the bill, declaring that the guaranteed income concept made him "tremble in fear for the fate of this Republic." It should make us all tremble. This is not to say that the indigent of the nation should not have some help from their fellow citizens. They should. Those physically capable of work should do it, for the accomplishment of a job is one of the great pleasures of life.

Sen. Long pointed out with great wisdom that the welfare system makes it more profitable to loaf than to work. Prophetically, he declared that a guaranteed income would swell the ranks of the unemployed and that the Congress in future years would be tempted to raise the limit on government grants. Again he spoke with wisdom. We have seen this happen in the relief programs and foreign aid already.

The nation must produce to survive. The men and women of this Republic have to dedicate their minds and their bodies to making us strong and it is the product or our initiative that will keep the economy sound and promote the common good. The opportunity is there. It is not evident in the socialistic states.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Iguanas aren't the world's greatest pets, frankly, but when you live in a 19th-floor apartment in the city, Airedales are out of the question.

That's how my husband and I used to explain it to squeamish dinner guests after they asked what the green things clinging to the drapes were.

The drapes were their second home. The first was a terrarium, but they outgrew that in a year—when Hamm was four feet long and Clov was three.

They never actually learned their names. They barely knew who we were and took no pains to conceal their aversion to us. They were ugly. And they had the annoying habit of disappearing for days on end and turning up in one of David's suit jackets or under a heater.

On the other hand, we loved them. They were fascinating to watch, and many's the long winter eve we've spent mulling over the strange love-hate relationship between them.

Even so, we never discovered whether they were male or female, or one of each. But their personalities were different: Hamm was the placid earthmother type, and Clov was inclined to feistiness. According to our lizard handbook, iguanas themselves have trouble distinguishing the sexes.

Our friends were considerably less fascinated by them than we, and our fascination began to pall as they continued to grow.

When we moved to a townhouse apartment in a suburb—with a lease stipulating No Pets—we farmed Hamm out with a bizarre relative in Birmingham. Clov we took along, intending to send him (her?) up to Knoxville, where a home had been promised her (him?) at the city zoo.

Meanwhile, we turned him loose in our patio garden, whence he promptly disappeared. We searched among the ivy, but in vain.

Several weeks later our landlady, who lives next door, approached me.

"You know," she said, "I'm really worried about poor Don across the street. He swears there's a lizard in his fig tree. He told me that last week, but I thought he'd had a couple of drinks.

"And the darndest thing is, that lizard has grown a foot since the last time he told it.

"That is the darndest thing," I said. "Where would a lizard come from around here?"

I've crept over for three nights now and called softly over the fence where the fig tree is. It's getting cold, and Clov is a warm-weather beastie. If you see a fig-stuffed iguana, do me a favor and ship it collect to the Knoxville zoo.

We do have a lease to worry about.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- Ten months ago, President Nixon told congressional leaders that the United States was "neutral" in the India—Pakistan conflict, although he had given secret orders to "tilt" toward Pakistan. Today, the U.S. is still tilting toward Pakistan, and Administration officials are still twisting the truth.

A foreign aid spokesman assured us that the U.S. is now shipping technical aid and relief food to India. From the White House down, officials insisted the U.S. is not favoring Pakistan over India. "There is no discrimination against India," a State Department official said.

The Indian embassy, however, tells us a different story. Not only were all aid shipments suspended last December in violation of signed agreements, said a spokesman, but the ban still hasn't been lifted. When we quoted what the foreign aid agency had told us, he made a careful check and reported back that no aid is getting through except possibly some delayed items that had been scheduled before the December suspension.

In contrast, the U.S. has quietly stepped up its support of Pakistan. In September, the U.S. granted Pakistan a 40- year, low interest $60 million loan; rescheduled a debt agreement worth $51 million in debt relief to Pakistan; and signed an agreement to ship 600,000 tons of wheat to Pakistan.

While Pakistan is filling its bins with American grain, it will export nearly an equal amount of rice. The wheat shipments, in other words, will help make it possible for Pakistan to sell rice on the world market for an estimated $46 million in cold cash. Pakistan will also be permitted to use the U.S. loan money to buy necessities from America's trade rivals.

The Indian embassy spokesman agreed with the State Department, at least, that there has been no diplomatic discrimination against India. "In terms of access," he said, "there has been no discrimination."

We, however, have uncovered evidence of discrimination. Recent instructions went out, for example, from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to its Langley Research Center. "During the past few months," declared the memo, "NASA (particularly Langley) has been getting many requests from India for published NASA reports without any attempt on the Indians' part to pay for these reports. Since the requestors are generally not involved in NASA cooperative projects, it is suggested that future requests be directed if possible to locations where the reports may be purchased."

The instructions were signed by James R. Morrison, deputy director of international planning. He acknowledged that he had singled out India, although other nations also seek and receive free NASA documents. He had ordered the crackdown on Indian requests, he explained, because they had become "excessive."

Quite clearly, U.S. policy on the Indian subcontinent still has a pronounced pro—Pakistan tilt.

--CHAFEE RETALIATES--

The Nixon Administration and the Republican Party machinery in Rhode Island are apparently cooperating in an effort to purge a federal employee who had the courage to tell the truth.

He is Arthur Levin, a congressional liaison officer at ACTION, the new agency that combines Peace Corps, VISTA and other volunteer activities.

Levin's sin was to publicly confirm our recent story which accuse President Nixon's former Navy Secretary, John Chaffee, of making personal use of Republican Governors Association funds when he was chairman of that organization in 1968.

Chafee is currently running for the Senate against incumbent Democrat Claiborne Pell. The White House considers the race crucial to its plans for a Republican takeover of the Senate.

Chafee, therefore, vehemently denied the charges. Levin, however had served as Chafee's press secretary and executive assistant in 1968 and he knew the charges to be true. So he issued a statement supporting our story and offered to meet Chaffee in publid debate.

Levin's embarrassing challenge, it appears, may have cost him his job.

Shortly after he issued the statement, John Chaffe personally spoke with Levin's superiors at ACTION. Nick Laird and Eric Silberstein. Laird and Silberstein claim Chafee called simply to inquire "whether Levin was acting in any official capacity."

Chafee's spokesman, on the other hand, mentioned the call was actually an effort to help Levin. "Mr. Chafee is not a vindictive man," said Dave Sweet, Chafee's press secretary. "He didn't want anything done (to Levin) on his account."

A week later, however, Levin was given two days notice to prepare for a three-week trip to the southwest and west coast to "survey...regional office needs for congressional affairs specialists.

Levin, claiming the trip was cooked up to get him out of Washington until the election, refused to go.

Furthermore, Levin told us in a sworn statement, he has been informed by Laird that "the telephone lines between the White House and ACTION have been burning. The Republicans in Rhode Island are literally screaming for your blood.

Levin is a Civil Service employee and, theoretically, cannot be fired for political reasons. Yet Silberstein told him, Levin swore, that the "system does not work" and that "the White House people can find ways around the regulations."

Levin said he has also received a call from Thomas Wright, Chairman of the Republican Party in Rhode Island. According to Levin, Wright threatened to "fix" and "ruin" him by seeing that he was "soon without a job."

Laird and Silberstein denied making the statements attributed to them by Levin. Silberstein even offered to put his denial in the form of an affidavit "if it it will help kill the story."

Thomas Wright also denied calling Levin, but admitted he kees the Administration "alerted" to Levin's activities.

NOTE: Levin has already managed to survive one purge attempt this year. Last January, he wrote a letter to the Providence Evening Bulletin in which he spoke favorably of Senator Pell. The letter was signed "Arthur D. Levin, Washington, D.C.," but it reportedly prompted Republican chief Wright to enlist the support of Harry Dent, then a White House political aide, in a clumsy effort to get Levin fired.

Robinson Continues Distinguished Career

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "What you have to do in our profession is maintain your sense of humor. When you feel yourself starting to get serious, that's when you should start smiling. When you get more serious, break out laughing. That's the only way to keep your sanity."

Edward G. Robinson was philosophising about his long survival in the film world. For proof of his theory, he offered the example of another relic of the gangster-movie era — "he won some awards and then became so dignified that he lost touch with reality."

It could never happen to Eddie Robinson.

He continues his distinguished acting career with a twinkle in his eye, refusing to be impressed with Hollywood or himself.

Robinson demonstrated his attitude recently when MGM gave him a champagne reception to celebrate his 101st movie, "Soylent Green," a science fiction story about overpopulation in the 21st century. Costar Charlton Heston delivered a flowery speech, Robinson's oldtime leading lady Joan Blondell gave him a kiss, and onetime boss Jack Warner tossed in some wisecracks. Robinson cut a cake and responded with gracious thanks.

Later he admitted, "This isn't my 101st picture. More like 120th. My God, I've done so many that I lost count long ago.

"I'm the kind of guy who keeps track of nothing, saves nothing. Oh, when I was a kid starting out in the theater, I saved my reviews. Then it was simple. You go out of town with a play, you get reviews. You come into New York, you get more reviews.

"But how the hell are you going to collect reviews on a movie when it's opening everywhere? After I got in pictures, I gave up saving anything."

Except art. He was the first of the famous Hollywood art collectors, amassing a gathering of Renoirs, Gauguins, Corots and Matisses that made his Beverly Hills home an artlover's paradise.

After the theatre...

Unbearable Chair

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Herman manufactured a pair of slacks that he maintained was wrinkle resistent. And to prove it he sponsored a "National Lap Sitting Contest." On every major college campus throughout the country he provided prizes for the collegian who could hold the greatest number of coeds on his lap while wearing a pair of Herman's slacks. On one college campus, however, the slacks held up, but the chair did not. While Ruppert supported a stack of 14 pretty coeds on his lap, the chair suddenly caved in.

Crawling out from underneath the bevy of beauties, collegian Ruppert sued Herman for his injuries.

"There's no question that Herman's responsible." Ruppert told the judge. "He negligently supplied a chair that couldn't hold the weight. Therefore, I demand that the jury be instructed to award me damages for my injuries."

"Not so fast," was Herman's answer. "When a man permits 14 girls to sit on his lap, he can anticipate that while he may be able to take it, the chair may not. Consequently, there's a question for the jury to decide as to whether Ruppert's entitled to collect anything at all.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the jury to return a verdict in favor of Ruppert?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a person may not collect in this state when he voluntarily exposes himself to a hazard which is known or which he can anticipate. He may not close his eyes to obvious danger. In this case, concluded the judge, it is up to the jury to determine whether the danger was obvious to Ruppert for if it was, despite Herman's negligence, Ruppert would not be able to recover for his injuries.

Scott YVP's Work For Nixon Day Saturday

Leaders of the Young Voters for the President movement in Scott County are busy this week preparing plans for campaign programs Saturday to observe "Nixon Appreciation Day".

Local YVP Chairman David Ziegenhorn stated the special day is being observed throughout Southeast Missouri to demonstrate the support of young people for President Richard M. Nixon's record in the White House.

The YVP chapter is setting up its own campaign program for that day, rather than follow any established pattern, in order to do what will be considered the most effective means of aiding the effort to re-elect the President.

Some members may be passing out literature to the public in shopping areas while others are conducting telephone polls or calling on residents in door-to-door canvasses in different parts of the county.

Ziegenhorn stated that the efforts Saturday are more than just a one-day demonstration of support for the President, but the launch of a intensified effort during the last three weeks of the campaign.

Ann Landers

Parents Should Be More Strict Than Permissive

Dear Ann Landers: I buried my husband three days ago. Everyone has been telling me what a wonderful person he was-- such a perfect gentleman, so kind and considerate, how lucky I was to have had him for so many years, and how I must now pick up the pieces and carry on without my beautiful helpmate.

What they don't know is that he was a vicious drunk. I spent the last 15 years covering up for him. Just once I'd like to tell somebody what my life was really like. In a word it was HELL. I think I'd fell better. I know this is not normal yet the urge is overwhelming. Now that he is gone and I am free, you'd think I'd want to keep my mouth shut, but I don't. Can you help me? I'm on the--- Ragged Edge

Dear Edge: You've told me. That's enough. If you feel the need to unload, in detail, write again-- say anything that crosses your mind. It will be good therapy for you and I won't mind. I've heard everything.

Dear Ann Landers: When I read that letter about the college kid who informed his parents that he wanted a double bed put in his room so he and his girl could sleep together during vacation, I got so mad I almost wigged out. And that idiot mother has to write to Ann Landers yet to ask what she should do!!!!

Two of our friends have college- age kids who pulled the same stunt and got away with it. (One is a girl!) The mother of this so- called liberated female said they had no choice. The girl announced that if they didn't say it was O.K. for her and the fellow to sleep in her room they would pitch a tent on the front lawn and sleep there so all the neighbors could see.

Another mother who was mouse- trapped into a similar situation told my husband and me that she was raised by a strict Methodist minister father and an out- of- this world prudish mother and that she was glad her children were honest and open about sex and that she was all for it.

What will these kids be like ten years from now? Will they be better off or worse off than we were? Can you tell us?--- Mind Boggled In Benton Harbor

Dear Boggled: No-- and neither can anyone else. Extreme rigidity is as damaging to children as permissiveness. The most difficult part of parenthood is to find the middle ground. If parents can't decide whether to say yes or no, my advice is to say "NO." I firmly believe that less damage is done by being too strict than too permissive. Besides, kids don't always want everything they ask for.

Dear Ann Landers: A group in our office has been having a small argument about something. When it is raining would a person get more wet, less wet or just wet if he ran instead of walked? We just took a vote and three said, "Just as wet, no matter if you walk or run." Six said, "Less wet if you run." Two said, "More wet if you run." Consult your Time and Motion expert and let us know what you come up with.--- X-Ray Department (Theme Song: Raindrops Falling On My Head)

Dear Head: If you run you will get less wet because you will be out in the rain for a shorter period of time, therefore you would have less exposure to the raindrops falling on your head. (P.S. There's a clever invention that could reduce this problem considerably. It is called an umbrella.)

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." For a copy, mail 35c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addresed envelope with your request to this newspaper.

In some countries, such as Canada and Great Britain Girl Scouts are called Girl Guides.

Junior Woman's Club Hears Mrs. Harbin

Arts and crafts items were displayed and discussed by Mrs. Sam (Del) Harbin at Monday night's Junior Woman's Club meeting in Wesley United Methodist Church.

The items, created by Mrs. Harbin, included decoupage, decorative painting, paper mache and lace and trim work. Through working with and teaching arts and crafts methods, she indulges a personal ambition while helping others enrich their lives.

Many craft items are made with "left-overs," and are therefor ecologically practical, she said.

Mrs. Ron (Linda) Carmody was elected to replace Mrs. Bill (Connie) Garner as treasurer. Mrs. Garner's resignation was due to plans of the family to relocate.

Guests included members of the Senior Woman's Club.

Betty Crocker coupons to help Missouri Girls Town, a Missouri Federated Womens Club supported home for girls, are to be delivered or sent to Mrs. Jerry (Donna) Koch by Nov. 7.

These coupons are to aid in the purchase of a station wagon to be used by housemother or director in transporting residents of Girls Town to special events and group outings.

Science Fair Under Way

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Administrators and science teachers of junior and senior high schools in Southeast Missouri have been urged to encourage participation of talented science pupils in the 17th annual Southeast Missouri Regional Science Fair to be held April 3- 6.

Dr. Robert J. Kuster, director of the fair and a professor of biology at Southeast Missouri State University, has sent separate letters to administrators and teachers, including those who teach social science and behaviorial science, asking participation.

More than 200 pupils bring their exhibits here for the regional event, with winners receiving numerous medals and awards, including two all- expense trips to join other youngsters from around the world at the International Science and Engineering Fair, this year in San Diego, Calif.

Dr. Kuster noted that many of the winners have been selected from local science fairs. He encouraged teachers and school officials to conduct local fairs so residents of the area's communities can see the work being done in their science departments. Winners can then be selected to take part in the district event.

Teachers who did not receive the mailing may contact Dr. Kuster at the university.

Fourth Judge To Be Named In Williams Case

BENTON — A fourth attempt to find a judge to try the 11-year-old double murder and rape case against James (Buddy) Williams of Holland has been handed to the Missouri Supreme Court. Williams is awaiting his second trial in Scott County Circuit Court.

The latest judge to disqualify himself was Judge W. Osler Statler of Cape Girardeau. Judge Statler disqualified himself Thursday after a petition requesting a new judge was filed by Pemiscot County Pros. Atty. Arthur T. Stephenson.

The trial has been delayed three times this year in Scott County Circuit Court as judges disqualified themselves. Judge Statler was originally sheduled to preside at the trial on March 20, but postponed it, saying the trial would conflict with another hearing scheduled in his own circuit of Cape and Bollinger Counties.

After a long delay, Stephenson requested that Judge Statler be disqualified and requested the Supreme Court to appoint another special judge for the case.

Judges who previously disqualified themselves were Judges William H. Billings of Kennett and Marshall Craig of Sikeston.

Williams, originally sentenced to death in the state penitentiary gas chamber, has been in the prison for a decade while legalities of the case are argued in the courts.

He was charged with first-degree murder and rape in connection with an incident on Dec. 22, 1961 on a rural road near Holland in Pemiscot County. He is accused of murdering Branda Joyce Raines, 17, of Holland, and her 19-year-old finance, Frank Craig of Blytheville, Ark. Miss Raines was sexually assaulted before she was killed.

The bodies were found along the road about a mile from Williams' home.

Williams was arrested after authorities learned he had been seen near the Craig car, which was parked on the road at the time of the slaying. Williams, after questioning and a lie detector test given at the Cape Girardeau police station, signed a confession admitting the double murders and rape.

Criminal assault and first-degree murder charges were filed against Williams in Pemiscot County on Dec. 26, 1961. Because Williams' attorney thought he could not receive a fair trial in Pemiscot County, a change of venue was granted to Scott County Circuit Court.

He was found guilty of the three charges in June 1962 and was sentenced to death. The sentence was thrown out when his attorney appealed to the Supreme Court, which awarded him a new trial.

His lawyers then entered pleas on the three counts, and Williams was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

In 1971, Williams filed a motion with the Supreme Court contending that his attorneys had not received authorization to enter guilty please for him, and once again the high court granted him a new trial on all three charges.

Stanley Roger Campbell of Miner was sentenced to one week in county jail and a $10 fine each on charges of speeding and driving without a license. He pleaded not guilty to charges of careless and imprudent driving and had trial set for Oct. 24.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of James Eugene Casey of St. Louis for failure to appear in court on charges of driving without a license.

Wheeler, 807 Poplar, speeding, was fined $11 and costs; James Henry Mason, 901 Allen Blvd., improper registration, fined $25 and costs; Cecil Thomas Beeson, 215 Harrison, failure to stop at a stop signal, dismissed; and Bryan Eugene Williams, 205 Parker in Chaffee, speeding, fined $10 and costs.

The face-slapping contest duration record was set in Kiev, U.S.S.R., in 1931, when a draw was declared between Vasiliy Bezbordny and Goniusch after 30 hours.

Highlights And Sidelights

2 Amendments Appear On November 7 Ballot

JEFFERSON CITY – Two amendments, one of which could reduce taxes for to give tax relief to those over Missourians by as much as $35 65 years of age. million or more, will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The first amendment deals not only with two of the state's unpopular taxes -- the property tax levy on household goods and the income tax on intagible – but with a proposal

Passage of this amendment would give the Legislature the authority to enact laws eliminating an estimated $12 to $13 million in household goods taxes, giving the elderly as much as $10 million a year in tax credits or rebates, and repealing an estimated $12 million a year in intagible taxes on individuals and non- profit organizations.

Constitutional Amendment No. 2 would establish new procedures to be followed by the General Assembly on bills vetoed by the governor either in the closing days of a regular session or after its conclusion.

If approved, any bill returned by the governor on or after the fifth day before the last day the General Assembly may consider bills in odd-numbered years will be placed at the top of the calendar of the house to which it is retuned.

In even- numbered years, however, any bill returned in this way would have to be considered at a session convened in September.

These sessions would be restricted to 10 days in length, and could be used only to consider vetoed bills.

The two-thirds majority required to override a veto would not be altered.

The repeal of the Household goods tax is contained in the first part of Constitutional Amendment No. 1. It states that "household goods, furniture, wearing apparel and articles of personal use and adornment owned and used by a person in his home or dwelling place may be exempt from taxation by general law."

The second part of Constitutional Amendment No. 1 gives the Legislature two alternatives to consider in providing tax relief for the elderly. Either the so-called circuit breaker approach or a homestead plan.

Under the circuit-breaker system, persons up to a certain level of income, which would be determined by the Legislature, would get a credit on their state income tax for local porperty taxes they paid. If the property tax they paid was greater than the state tax they owed, they would receive a rebate from the state.

Rep. Jack J. Schramm (D-University City) introduced a circuit-breaker bill in the spring session which was approved by the House, but was not acted upon by the Senate committee. Schramm estimated the bill would return about $10 million in tax credits to about 138,000 elderly person, averageing about $74 each. It limited financial assistance by establishing a means test for eligibility and a limit on assistance granted.

Another approach the Legislature could take to grant tax relief to those over 65 is the homestead approach. This sets up a system of property tax exemptions for homeowners and renters. Under this system, the Legislature could provide that a portion of an elderly person's assessed valuation would be exempt from property taxes. Local governments would have to figure the exemptions on their tax bills.

It is only in this section of the amendment, the part dealing with tax relief to the elderly, that the Legislature is required to provide some reimbursement to the local governments for any revenue lost due to enactment of such a law. In the sections dealing with the household goods and intangible taxes, the Legislature is not required to provide restitution for possible revenues lost.

The Legislature passed a measure repealing all intangible taxes earlier this year, however, it does not take effect until Jan. 1, 1975.

Constitutional Amendment No. 1 would permit the Legislature to enact legislation which would exempt individuals and non-profit organizations from an intangible tax, but not apply to corporations, banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions and unstitutions.

Organized campaigns for or against either amendment appear to be nonexistent and both seem sure of passage.

A total of 50 amendments have been placed on the ballot since the Missouri Constitution was revised on 1945. Of these, 31 have passed.

Taught to Win

So strongly do the Asmat people of New Guinea believe in equality that when some schoolchildren were taught to play soccer, the games invariably ended in ties and only after much prompting did they learn to play to win.

? Consumer's Question Box ? By Margaret Dana

Q. We are a ninth grade Home Ec Class and we have recently seen a commercial in which the Totem Company boosts their own products and slams Baggies. How can they do this?

A. While it has been considered unethical and unfair business practice to name one's competitors in a critical or disparaging way, the Federal Trade Commission recently announced it was going to try out for one year permission for an advertiser to do this -- to be specific in claims of superiority.

It is, therefore, legal, but very few experienced trade experts believe this provides an advantage to the consumer buyer, or encourage fair competition. Your study class might write to the Consumer Education Division, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580, and ask if your class could have a copy of its rule on this.

Frankly Speaking By Thomas F. Eagleton

I regret to report that, in the Congressional session just ended, the House and Senate were unable to agree on stronger measures to combat the menace of airplane hijackings.

You don't need to have traveled by air recently to understand the fear and anxiety that sky pirates have caused.

After five years of trying to devise measures to deal with these despicable acts of terrorism, we now realize the complexities of attempting to solve the problem on an international basis. We have only to read the newspapers to realize that we have not made much headway.

The actions we have taken to date -- such as placing sky marshals on regularly scheduled flights, using metal detection devices at airports, and attempting to identify potential hijackers by "behavior profiles" -- seem to have reduced the number of hijackings. But none of these measures, however, represents a full solution. And we cannot be satisfied until that solution is found.

During the past year several efforts were made in Congress to improve anti- hijacking legislation, including imposing certain minimum security standards on commercial airlines. Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington introduced a bill to tighten the current laws. It would have carefully defined U. S. jurisdiction in hijack cases and would have provided harsh penalties for anyone involved in hijacking an aircraft.

Perhaps the most important aspect of Sen. Magnuson's bill is that it would have empowered the President to cut off air service to any country which allows itself to be used as a refuge for hijackers.

It is time that the nations of the world began to follow up their expressed concern for terrorism by entering into agreements that have the teeth to back them up.

Countries that harbor terrorists or which allow themselves to be used as refuges for air pirates should be made the objects of internationally imposed economic and political sanctions.

Sen. Magnuson's bill, if passed in the next session of Congress, will go a long way toward deterring future hijackings in this country. But we should extend its provisions to apply to other countries as well, and our State Department should be giving the negotiations for such agreements the highest priority.

Congress must make this important legislation one of its first priorities when we reassemble in early January. Legislation to control the hijacking menace should be high on the list of nonpartisan measures about which there should be no real disagreements.

Blades Releases Information On Teachers Salaries

HOWARDVILLE — Salary for New Madrid County R-1 enlarged school district teachers, based on a minimum salary of $6,400, is $5.16 per hour, compared to Manpower Development and Training teachers, who are paid $5.50 hourly statewide, according to a study by J. Robert Blades of Parma, Manpower Development and Training Act director for the district.

Blades released the information in a recent report to the R-1 board of education.

Blades noted the hourly wage scale is based on figures that a regular teacher works 6.5 hours per day or 32.5 hours each week for 36 weeks each year, or a total of 1,242 hours annually. However, Blades commented, a majority of the district teachers, because of several years of experience, receive a much higher pay scale than the base figure.

MDTA teachers, who are required to have five years of experience in their trade area, work eight hours daily, or 40 hours weekly for 52 weeks, less a two- week vacation, and receive $11,400.

All MDTA instructors, excepting new teachers, have attended night classes at their expense to secure 20 hours credit required for vocational certification, which, Blades said, is not a requirement by MDTA but indicates an interest by instructors to upgrade their abilities.

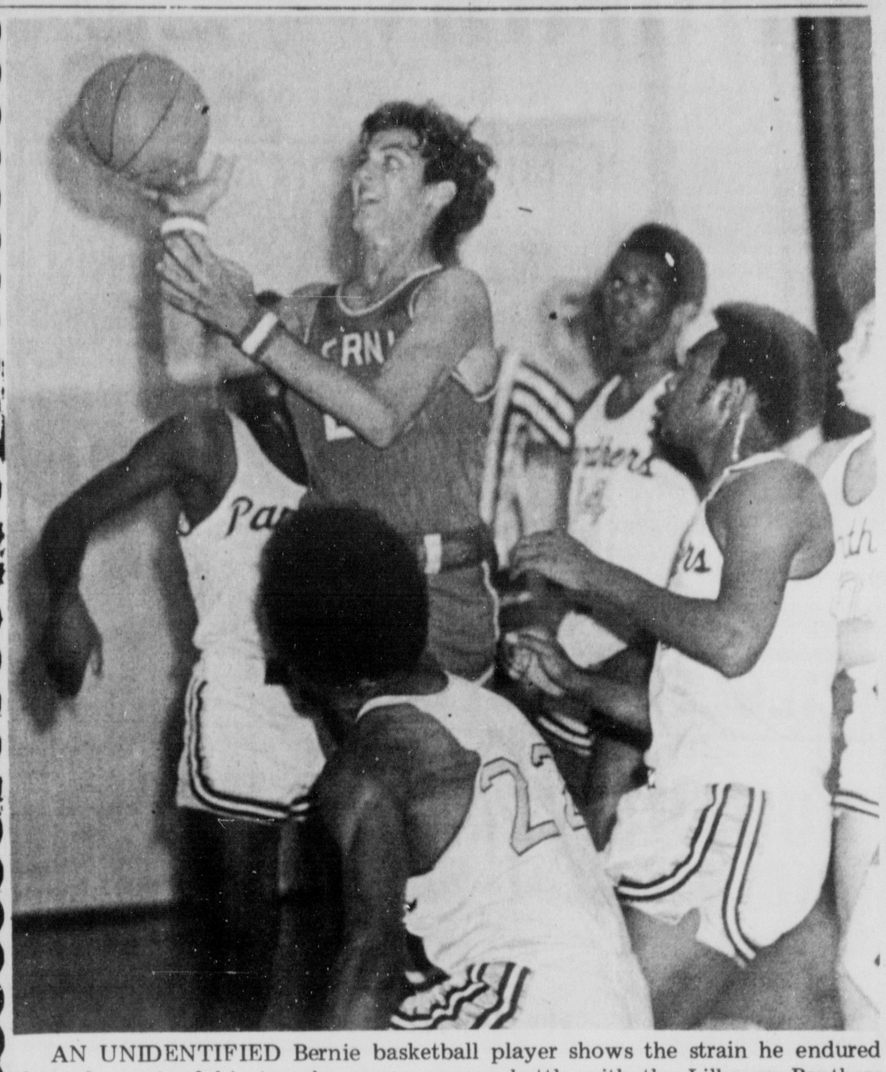
Panthers, Pirates Prevail



AN UNIDENTIFIED Bernie basketball player shows the strain he endured through most of his team's season opener battle with the Lilbourn Panthers Tuesday night in the Parma invitational junior varsity tournament. The Mules were 109-39 victims of the Panthers.

PARMA — If the opening of the 1972-73 high school basketball season is any indication of what's ahead, the Southeast Missouri roundball fan is in for the most exciting season ever.

A capacity crowd sat in on the Bootheel's opening action and saw Lilbourn's junior varsity explode for 109 points to breeze past Bernie, 109-39, while Matthews displayed a tough defensive unit in holding Richland scoreless in the first period and to only 17 points through three quarters before posing a 52- 33 win.

Action in the five-team affair resumes Thursday with Lilbourn matched against Parma at 6:30 and Bernie battling Richland in a loser's bracket contest at 8 p.m.

Coach Bob Phelps' Panthers displayed a sharp shooting, tough rebounding squad against a young Bernie team. Seven players scored in double figures for LHS, with Mike Robinson leading the way with 14 markers. Larry Stuver had 13 for the Mules' leading effort.

Bernie stayed close with the fast-breaking, quick Panther squad most of the first quarter, but ball handling mistakes opened the door for the defending champions, and they quickly rolled up a 53-25 halftime lead.

Matthews displayed a cool, defensive - minded quintet against Richland. The Pirates held the Rebels scoreless through the first nine minutes of action, and then allowed them only 17 markers before using substitutes the final seven minutes of play.

Mike Kennedy had 22 points and Ken Baker 17 in leading the Pirates' season opening triumph. Larry Johnson's seven tallies were tops for the Rebs.

Scoring:

LILBOURN (109)
Robinson 14, Baker 12, Bell 12, McFerron 12, Treadwell 12, White 10, Hurbins 10, Ash 10, Irons 6, Rand 6, Thongson 5. FG---54; FT---1; PF---17.

Sports World Mourns Robinson Death

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — A man of courage died Tuesday; the whole world mourns his passing.

Black or white, young or old, athlete, politician or plain old sports fan—all were saddened by the news that Jackie Robinson, 53, had died of heart disease.

President Nixon, who once called Robinson "the greatest athlete I ever saw," said in Washington,"His courage, his sense of brotherhood and his brilliance on the playing field brought a new human dimension—not only to the game of baseball, but to every area of American life where black and white people work side by side. His example will continue to inspire us for years to come."

"His entire life was courage," praised Bowie Kuhn, Commissioner of Baseball. "Courage as the black pioneer of the game, courage as a player, courage in the way he fought for what he believed, courage in the way he faced his final illness."

"I really hope the world will mourn the passing of a man, not just an athlete," said Joe Black, a teammate of Robinson on the Brooklyn Dodgers. "I don't want him to be a martyr—but I want people to know that they've lost a battler."

Jack Roosevelt Robinson was a man whose entire life was a battle, and a man who never gave in—not as a child, growing up in a fatherless home; not as a baseball player, where he broke the color barrier in 1947 by becoming the first black player in the major leagues; not after he retired from the sport, as he strove to accomplish something meaningful for blacks and whites alike, whether in business, sports, politics or civil rights, and not in the face of personal tragedy, whether it was the death of his son or his long, lingering illness.

Robinson, silver-haired and nearly blind, suffered an early morning attack at his home and was pronounced dead on arrival at Stamford Hospital at 7:10 a.m., EDT, Tuesday.

He had been plagued by ailments in recent years. He was felled by a heart seizure in 1968, and also was suffering from diabetes. He had lost his sight in one eye, and was rapidly going blind in the other eye.

When Robinson was invited to throw out the first ball for the second game of the 1972 World Series, he let it be known that if he was asked his opinions, he would not hide them.

And when he was presented with a plaque at home plate commemorating the 25th anniversary of his entrance into baseball, he said in his acceptance speech, "I am extremely proud and pleased, but I will be even more pleased the day I can look over at third base and see a black man as manager."

David Robinson, Jackie's 20year-old son, noted that his father was a "black man in America, and every black man is trying to break down racial barriers—in baseball and everywhere."

Robinson will best be remembered for that day in April, 1947 when he played left field for the Brooklyn Dodgers, breaking the ancient color barrier which had blotted the record of the national pastime.

It was called "the noble experiment," and the two key figures were Robinson, the athlete, and Branch Rickey, boss of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Rickey had hand-picked Robinson to be the pioneer, because he knew it would take more than just athletic skill for the experiment to be a success.

"They'll taunt you and goad you," Rickey told Robinson. "They'll do anything to make you react. They'll try to provoke a race riot in the ball park.

"Robinson, I'm looking for a ballplayer with guts enough not to react."

And Jackie was that ballplayer—because he was an extraordinary man.

Robinson was born Jan. 31, 1919 in the south Georgia farm town of Cairo. His father deserted the five children and Jackie's mother a year later, and the family moved to Pasadena, Calif.

Jackie always was a standout athlete, even on the sandlots of Pasadena. He was so talented, other kids used to buy him drinks and sandwiches just to be on his team.

"You might say," Robinson once quipped, "that I turned pro at a very early age."

Robinson was a star athlete at Pasadena Junior College, then became a standout in football, baseball and track at UCLA.

—Anderson Top NL Manager—

NEW YORK (AP) — George "Sparky" Anderson, molder of the Cincinnati Reds, today was named Manager of the Year in the National league.

Anderson's Reds won their second pennant in three seasons and he beat Pittsburgh skipper Bill Virdon in an Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters for the Manager of the Year award.

The margin was 271-179 for Anderson, in balloting conducted prior to the National League playoffs and World Series. Montreal's Gene Mauch was a distant third with seven votes.

Cincinnati lost in seven games to Oakland in the World Series that ended Sunday. Anderson's team lost the 1970 Series to the Baltimore Orioles 4-1.

The Reds won the Western Division of the National League by 10½ games this season, while Virdon's Pirates breezed by 11 games in the East. Then, Cincinnati beat the Pirates 3-2 in the playoff for the pennant.

"It feels great although I know awards are won because the team did well," said the graying, 38-yer-old Anderson. "I really wanted this award. Tell everybody I appreciate it.

The former second baseman, who spent 10 of his 11 playing years in the minor leagues, was sitting in his office at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium when he heard the news.

Anderson opened mail, mostly from Reds' fans who said they were behind the team all the way despite the loss to the American League champions.

After a few seasons managing in the minors, Anderson was appointed as a coach by the San Diego Padres in 1969. A year later, when Cincinnati fired Dave Bristol, he was hired to manage the Reds.

He took them to the NL pennant that year, then lost the World Series to Baltimore. In 1971, Cincinnati finished fourth in the Western Division.

Then came 1972, and another Cincinnati pennant.

Other than Mauch, the alsorans included New York Mets Manager Yogi Berra with six votes; Walter Alston, the 1971 Manager of the Year from Los Angeles, four; Whitey Lockman of Chicago and Harry Walker, who was fired at midseason by Houston, two apiece.

People who credit their ancestors with a trip to this land on the Mayflower number among them the optimists for the largest seagoing craft of all time.

Texas Tech Upset Favorite

NEW YORK (AP) — Missouri and Oregon, fresh from stunning upsets, and Oklahoma State, which pulled off one of its own four weeks ago, get a chance to do it again Saturday against three of the country's top seven college football teams.

—Missouri, which rebounded from a 62-0 whomping at the hands of Nebraska and shocked Notre Dame 30-26, is at home against seventh-ranked Colorado, which has been both an upset victim and victor, the latest a 20-14 triumph over second-ranked—at the time—Oklahoma.

—Oregon, which recovered from four consecutive setbacks, including such whoppers as 68-3 and 65-20, to upset Stanford 1513 last weekend, entertains toprated Southern California.

—Oklahoma State, conqueror of Colorado back on Sept. 30, visits Nebraska for a game that will decide the Big Eight leader since both teams have 2-0 conference records.

What does the future hold in store? Read on, but be forewarned that last week's score was a mediocre .678.

Colorado at Missouri—Logic says the Buffs will be looking back to Oklahoma or ahead to Nebraska. Missouri has already had its upset. Colorado.

Southern Cal at Oregon—Ducks' Dan Fouts undoubtedly will fill the air with footballs, but USC is eighth nationally in total defense. Trojans lost to Oregon last season and comparative Stanford scores (USC 30-21, Oregon 15-13) indicate it should be close again. But this corner says it'll just be another romp for ... Southern Cal.

Oklahoma State at Nebraska—Huskers have bounced back from their opening loss to UCLA by routing five straight opponents, the last three by a combined 167-0 score. Soph quarterback Dave Humm has Bob Devaney's passing attack up among the leaders. Nebraska.

Kansas State at Oklahoma— Sooners rolled up a record 711 yards on the ground last year in clobbering K-State 75-28 and they just might be mad enough to do it again after losing to Colorado. Oklahoma.

Washington State at UCLA— Cougars are a surprising 5-2 but the remainder of the schedule lists Southern Cal, Stanford and Washington after ... UCLA.

Texas at Rice—Longhorns passed 32 times against Oklahoma, only three times against Arkansas. Rice's Bruce Gadd throws a lot every game. Texas.

Penn State at West Virginia— "We're still not making the big play on defense," says Joe Paterno. "We're dropping passes and we're not coming up with the interceptions. And the kicking team hasn't come up with the big play for a long time." Poor Penn State. They're only 5-1 and haven't lost to the Mountaineers since 1955. Penn State.

Florida State at Auburn—Having been tested by the throwing arms of Louisiana State's Bert Jones and Georgia Tech's Eddie McAshan the last two weeks, Auburn now runs into Gary Huff, the Magic Dragon of ... Florida State.

Air Force at Arizona State— The only previous meeting turned into a wild 44-28 triumph last year for ... Arizona State.

Texas Tech at Southern Methodist—Tech ranks 10th in rushing but SMU leads the nation in rushing defense and has two fine runners of its own in Alvin Maxson and Wayne Morris. Hunch says the Mustangs might be looking ahead to Texas.

Upset Special of the Week ... Texas Tech.

Delaware at Temple—"I don't think we're as good a football team as people say we are," says Coach Tubby Raymond of Delaware's defending College Division national champs. "We just inherited our rating. I think it's a residue from last year."

Actually, the Blue Hens dropped from No. 1 to No. 2 a couple of weeks ago although they're still unbeaten. Their last loss was last year to ... Temple.

One-Year Scholarship Proposed

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— The 18- member council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association has voted to recommend to the NCAA convention that a ban be lifted against women athletes.

The policy- making body voted Tuesday to propose that women athletes be permitted to compete in NCAA meets and tournaments, providing they qualify for the events.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the council said some announcements may be made today regarding alleged rules violations by four member institutions.

The council spent most of its meeting Tuesday reviewing the alleged infractions, but officials declined to disclose the schools involved.

"Any action that is taken by the council will not be announced until the member school has been notified," Tom Hansen, NCAA assistant executive director, said.

The council also reaffirmed a previous decision to submit to the 1973 convention in Chicago next January a proposal to limit athletic related financial rewards to one year.

"Some schools use the four year scholarship as a recruiting weapon," said Wade Stinson, University of Kansas athletic director and council member.

"The one- year scholarship will eliminate this."

The council also reaffirmed previous decisions to submit to the convention recommendations to limit the number of financial aid awards which may be given by an institution, require that financial aid for all athletes be based on a recipient's need and establish a national letter of intent for signing athletes.

Under the proposed aid program, a division one university school would be limited to granting 104 scholarships a year in 17 NCAA sports. Each school would be allowed to have 229 additional athletes receiving financial help.

Schools in division two colleges would be limited to 71 new scholarships with 158 additional grants.

The major schools would be permitted to issue 30 football and six basketball scholarships yearly, with 75 additional awards in effect for football and 13 in baske ball.

Any person who runs for election to a political office is called a candidate. In ancient Rome, political candidates strove to look their best during election campaigns and wore immaculate white togas to impress voters, The World Almanac notes. Mizzou Entertains Buffs Saturday

COLUMBIA-- Whatever' mystique was concocted on a drizzly Saturday in South Bend, let 'er rip one more time, Al.

Because the team that's coming to town this week-- Colorado-- had its own brand of adrenalin working overtime on the same momentous afternoon.

The Tigers and Buffs hook up here Saturday afternoon in a Big Eight conference football game before some 51,000 Homecomers. For all their heroics at Notre Dame, the 3— 3 Missourians are still looking for their first conference win in three tries.

The Golden Buffs, meantime, stand 6— 1-- and Coach Eddie Crowder's talented gang in back in the Big Eight race after that 20-14 ambush of No. 2 ranked O.U. at Boulder. Colorado hasn't won in Columbia since 1966, but the Herd could be reckoned a three-touchdown favorite here Saturday.

"They have so many quality players," Coach Al Onofrio mused Monday, "and they are such a complete football team-- it scares me."

But neither Onofrio-- nor his keyed-up Bengals-- "ran scared" at Notre Dame last week. The 30-26 shocker by a four-touchdown underdog probably rates as the biggest upset in Mizzou's 83— year annals.

Now-- which team will have more carry-over sharpness and motivation this Saturday, after a peak effort? Can Mizzou splice together two consistent ball-games back-to-back-- something the Tigers haven't done all year?

Will Colorado be peeking ahead to its showdown scrap with Nebraska in Boulder a week hence? Vacating their mountain retreat, how effective are the Buffaloes as a road team?

Playing on Faurot Field for the first time in four weeks, Al Onofrio's Tigers will have Bruce Berry, slender junior halfback, ready this Saturday-- but sophomore Bill Ziegler is grounded again. This time, a hairline fracture of the hand will idle the 205-pound halfback who was a starter until his injury against Oklahoma State.

Defensive halfbacks Ken Gregory and Steve Yount, casualties at Nebraska, are still questionable after missing the Irish game. Backs Ray Bybee and Chuck Link are not yet ready either. They were injured in the Oklahoma State game three weeks ago.

Colorado will pressure the Tigers' defense with quarterback Ken Johnson's run-pass threat.. and the inside-- outside thrusts of 230-pound fullback Bo Matthews and halfback Charlie Davis. Wingback Jon Keyworth and tight end J.V. Cain are Johnson's prime targets.

Defensively, the Buffs chilled Oklahoma's wishbone operation last week-- an attack that was pacing the nation both in rushing and total offense.

Mizzou leads the all-time series with 23 wins, 10 losses-- and three games have been tied.

Farris Leads Murray State

MURRAY, Ky. — Their first Ohio Valley Conference win back of them, the Murray State Racers will play OVC foe Eastern Kentucky at Richmond Saturday.

The Racers beat East Tennessee 17-6 last Saturday at Murray's Homecoming to run their overall record to 2-4 and their OVC record to 1-3. Eastern, beaten 10-0 by Western Kentucky last Saturday, is 4-3 overall and 2-2 in the conference.

Murray Coach Bill Furgerson said his Racers' win over East Tennessee capped a perfect Homecoming. "The team was determined to win for the former coaches, captains and the alumni watching the game," he said. The players, while appreciating the compliment, were also tired of being called the best 1-4 team in the South. They decided they wanted to be called a good winning team."

Murray State had invited all of its former football coaches and captains back for the game as part of its celebration of its 50th anniversary. Five former coaches and 35 former captains attended.

The Racers scored all their points in the first half and then depended on the defense to keep East Tennessee in check the second. The defense obliged by causing two Buccaneer fumbles inside the Murray 10-yard line. The defense also picked off three of Alan Chadwick's passes in the first half to keep the Bucs in trouble.

Chadwick, the OVC leader in total offense and passing going into the game, was held to 9 completions in 18 attempts for 87 yards.

Safety Paul Coltharp had two of the interceptions and also contributed six tackles and four assists to the Racer cause. Linebacker Bruce Farris had eight tackles and four assists and a fumble recovery. Tackle Jerry Stanley had eight tackles and 2 assists. Farris is a Sikeston, Mo., product and Stanley is from Hayti, Mo.

George Greenfield, the OVC's leading rusher, had 177 yards in 19 rushes to pace the Racer offense. He has 711 yards in 164 rushes for the season. Quarterback Mike Hobbie passed only sparingly but completed four of eight for 56 yards. The Racers had 324 yards total offense to East Tennessee's 279.

Every interior lineman for the Racers graded at least 60 per cent on his assignment, the first time that had happened in many games, according to Furgerson.

Tackle Charlie Carpenter, who Furgerson called the best offensive tackle in the OVC, graded 77 per cent, guard Rodney Pickering 65, tight end Bill Farrell 64, tackle Mark Norrid 61 and center Mike Perry and guard Joe Gloriso 60, Norrid is another Missouri Bootheel product from Malden.

Crews Is New Owner Of Welsh Funeral Home

Raymond Crews, who has been associated with Mrs. H. J. Welsh for 32 years in the operation of Welsch Funeral Home Inc. at 101 W. Gladys St., has assumed full ownership.

Mrs. Welsh is retiring due to advancing age and declining health.

Crews has served as manager and co-owner of the funeral home for five years. The business was established in 1919 by Henry J. Welsh, who died in 1942.

Crews said the funeral home will maintain the same management policies as it has in the past. Future improvements are being planned, he said.

Noranda Accident Free In 100,000 Man Hours

NEW MADRID — One hundred thousand man hours free from industrial lost-time accidents was recently achieved by the carbon operations department of the Noranda Aluminum, Inc. plant near New Madrid.

Clint Halstead, plant manager, acknowledged the accomplishment, citing the positive safety attitude maintained by each member of the department.

Accepting a certificate of recognition from Halstead, department superintendent A. O. Pinner noted that the last lost- time accident occurred in September 1971.

Statistically, the National Safety Council has recorded 245,000,000 man days and more than 9 billion dollars lost to employes and industry in 1971 due to work accidents. During the brief presentation ceremony, Pinner stated, "Our record was achieved as a result of individual and team effort, and marks only the beginning of what we intend to do. Each employe is commended for his part in this achievement."

Carbon operations department responsibilities include river barge and rail unloading, processing of various raw materials and ultimate production of carbon anode and cathode products essential in aluminum reduction. The department handles more then 350,000 tons of material annually, operates equipment which exceeds 1,700 tons of pressure, maintains bake ovens at temperatures exceeding 1,110 degrees and utilizes molten metal at various points.

The 24-hour a day, seven-day a week operation represents one of five major departments at Noranda.

Analysts Search For Reason For Sagging Stock Market Values

By CROCKETT SCOTT

"Bright Star, would I were stedfast as thou art."

.....Keats

A bear market in Wall Street? A bull market in the supermarket?

This was an off the cuff analysis by a Chicago securities analyst on Oct. 13, who speculated further that "one of these days the market will have discounted all of the bad news."

At which point, he implied, the bargain hunters will move in and stimulate the averages to the upside.

Of course, there were a lot of red faces among security analysts as the market took another drubbing by seven points or so on the Dow Jones Industrials on Oct. 13. There have been a lot of red faces, in fact, on many days during September and early October.

And each day the market goes down, investors, traders and speculators look for a reason. The most favored at the moment, it would seem, is higher short- term interest rates, with the prime rate nearing six per cent at mid—October.

Before that, the most frequent explanation— and probably a reason with substance— was the oft repeated denial of progress in peace negotiations following prior reports of success.

During the summer months and into the early fall Sen. George McGovern was blamed for the market's descent. The investor, said the professionals, was aghast at prospects of the South Dakotan at the helm in Washington.

Now, it is repeated in boardrooms not entirely in jest that the stockmarket has been "celebrating" President Nixon's re- election in advance of Nov. 7 by continuing the slide inaugurated by the Democratic standard bearer.

After the election, assuming Nixon is re- elected, the market could get the shakes, according to the thesis of some analysts on the basis that Nixon then could get to work in earnest on restraining inflation— without having to worry any longer about being re- elected.

Conceivably, he would do this by a more restrictive fiscal policy— less spending, which, in turn, would curtail revenues and profits.

However, there is another widely held thesis that any administration, Republican as well Democratic, will have to continue with deficit spending for an indefinite period— at last until such time as the unemployment rate recedes to a point around four per cent.

Still another "explanation" of the stock market is that offered by Democrats in the board rooms. They will tell you that "we always have had bear markets during Republican Administrations; and usually bull markets in Democratic Administrations.

In serious considerations of the state of the stock market, central region investment houses still contend that market weakness has resulted from over emphasis of potentially bad news, rather than objective considerations of the wealth of good news about the economy.

There is widespread professional feeling for instance, that the fear of a credit crunch in 1973 has been overplayed.

With a rebounding economy, higher interest rates are a natural occurence, they rem.nd. As demand for money increases, it follows that interest charges will move up— unless an easy money policy is instituted by the Federal Reserve Bank and fiscal restraint practiced by the administration in Washington.

Plains states market analysts see prospects for the Federal Reserve plodding a middle course on interest rates— making available "enough" money through open market operations and regulation of bank reserves in relation to loans to slow the advance of interest rates, but not being liberal enough to hold short- term interest rates at current levels.

Jaycees Pick Halloween Candy Alternative

CLIFTON PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Concerned about the possibility of tampered candy, the Jaycees and Jayncees of this community north of Albany are urging homeowners to buy and dispense coupons rather than the traditional treats this Halloween.

"We have seen too many things in the papers about people who put things in candy on Halloween night," Mrs. Dean W. Burrows, president of the Jayncees said. "It just scared some of us mothers. The coupons will solve everything. The youngsters can redeem the coupons at the store and pick out the candy they want."

COOKING-UP with Donna Satterfield

By DONNA SATTERFIELD

Give me the simple life ... and simple foods, and what could be more simple than casseroles and salads, right? You guessed it. I think I can let you in on a couple of smashing casserole recipes, typewriter permitting. And for you bean salad lovers, have I got the beans for you.

Casseroles are great for potluck suppers. Curiously enough, that's where one of the recipes was introduced. But why am I rattling on? The recipes, if you please ...

P. S. Hope you enjoyed Nadine's Bundt cake recipes. She's our New Madrid correspondent and a great cook. Thanks, Nadine.

HAMBURGER NOODLE BAKE

3 cups cooked drained noodles (cook 2 3/4 cups)
1 pound ground beef
1/4 coup cream of mushroom soup

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teasoon pepper
1 cup cracker crumbs
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
350 degrees Serves 4-6

Cook the noodles and brown the ground beef along with the onion. Drain off the drippings. Mix well in a three-quart bowl cream of mushroom soup, evaporated milk, cheese, salt and pepper. Stir in the meat and noodles. Pour into a greased, two-quart baking dish. Top mixture with the cracker crumbs, garlic salt and melted butter. Bake at 350 degrees 25-30 minutes or until bubbly hot.

2 stalks celery sliced in thin crescents
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup salad oil
2 tablespoons parsley (If you use flakes, use less)
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon basil

Toss vegetables together, then combine rest and pour over bean salad. Chill for 3-4 hours or over night.

One of my trusty fans, Mrs. Anne Sheehan, has sent me a recipe for popcorn balls. This is for the benefit of those who will be making their own goodies for Halloween.

POPCORN BALLS

1/2 pound popcorn
2 cups sugar
1 cup water
1/2 cup white syrup
1 tablespoon butter

Boil ingredients until it strings and makes a soft ball. This takes care of half pound of corn, which should be popped and ready in a large dish pan. Ball in waxed paper.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Vanilla Helps Cut Pesty Paint Fumes

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. R. G. whose family members have hay fever and allergies so that paint fumes bother them. First and always, she should use a latex base paint. It has fewer fumes than an oil base one. A little vanilla can be added to the latex base paint and even a dish of onions can be put in the room being painted to cut the fumes. Always paint with the doors and windows open for plenty of ventilation. To prevent mildew from forming on the walls is a real problem. She could use a waterproof paint. When mildew starts to form wipe it off with a dry cloth and then spray with a disinfectant. In humid weather I often put some moth crystals around and they seem to help.—MARIAN

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. R. G. that a home magazine once published a good method for killing mildew inside and out. Scrub the surface with a solution of three parts of a household trisodium phosphate cleaner, one part strong detergent, two parts chlorine bleach and three parts warm water. Rinse well.—JUANITA

DEAR GIRLS — Juanita's suggestion also is one recommended by some paint companies. As to the other part of Mrs. R. G.'s question, a latex paint has very little odor but the fumes are still there with any paint or after the use of an odor killer. The addition of vanilla will not affect the paint and I personally think vanilla is a good odor remover. A vanilla candle is even stronger than is the liquid and most penetrating. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Does anyone know how to clean wedding cake ornaments? I keep mine under a glass dome but still the lace is turning yellow and appears dirty.—MRS. L.W.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the manufacturers of support hose. I wear them on doctor's orders and find the seam in the reinforced section of the toe has a clumsy place at each side — one falls right over the bunion bone and the other smack on top of the little toe — just the perfect place to make a beautiful corn. It seems that section could be made smaller, the seam less clumsy or something—J. T.

DEAR POLLY — I have a solution for wives whose husbands snore and vice versa. Most snoring is done when a person is lying on his back. My husband is a tall, large man and it was impossible for me to turn him on his side when he was sound asleep. Now I simply reach over, grab the end of the pillow and SLOWLY pull it towards me one or two inches and this turns his head to one side and the snoring stops. Occasionally this movement will disturb the snorer enough that he will voluntarily turn to one side or the other. Either way has worked every time for me.—JOANN

Leaves To Oil

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A student study shows there is undiscovered oil in a lot of American backyards.

But don't quit work yet.

A group of students at the University of Louisville proved this summer that oil can be produced from leaves.

Armed with a $12,930 National Science Foundation grant and several bags of leaves they collected last year and stored, 12 students set out to determine how they could turn the simple leaf into useful products.

The students produced oil on a small scale — in quantities of grams — using what they called the "bomb" or a high pressure reactor in the corner of their basement laboratory.

By heating the leaves to 400 to 450 degrees to create pressure and injecting hydrogen gas and carbon monoxide, they reduced the leaves to a gooey black substance that left oil when the residue was removed.

"We're not a major threat to the oil companies," quipped Lewis Rowe, 22, one of the students. "We haven't seen the stock market crumble."

Benjamin Barr Lindsey, a judge of the Denver juvenile court for 26 years, was disbarred in the state in 1929 for his views and writings on trial marriage.

Social Security Answers

Q. I was hospitalized last month for 12 days and then released to my home. I must return this month for surgery. Must I again pay the $68.00 deductible when I re-enter the hospital?

A. No. You only pay the deductible one time in each benefit period. A benefit period ends only when you have not been a bed patient in any hospital or skilled nursing home for sixty days or more.

Q. My medical insurance premium was increased from $5.60 a month to $5.80 a month beginning with the month of July, 1972. Do you feel medical insurance is such a great bargain at that price?

A. Actually, the Medical Insurance Program costs $11.60 per month beginning July, 1972, but the Federal Government pays one half of that cost, or $5.80. Thus, your contribution of only $5.80 pays for insurance worth $11.60.

Q. I am covered under a group health insurance plan where I work and the company pays the premium. I will be 65 in 6 months but do not plan to retire. Will there be any point in my enrolling for medical insurance?

A. You should check with your company to determine if you will have full coverage after you are 65. Some group policies do not grant full coverage to employees over 65. Also, remember, that if you do not apply for medical insurance within three years of your first opportunity you will be permanently excluded.

Q. I'll be 62 on January 16. I want to retire then and receive a reduced benefit. When can I file my appliation?

A. The earliest date would be October 1. It would be well to file during October, November, or December, so your papers can be processed in time to get your first checks to you when due on February 3.

Q. How long will it take from the time that I file my application until I start getting my checks?

A. This varies based on many factors. The average time now runs about 35 days. That's why we urge you to file your claim 2 or 3 months ahead of your retirement date.

Q. My husband has been ill for 30 years and is dependent upon me for all of his support. When I apply for social security can he qualify for benefits on my record?

A. Yes. To qualify as a dependent husband he must be receiving at least half of his support from you when you apply for benefits. He can qualify for a reduced benefit when he is 62 or a full benefit when he is 65.

To Whom Is Congressman Responsible?

By REP. BILL BURLISON
10th DISTRICT

There seems to be a view prevailing in some quarters that the Representative be accountable to the Washington lobbyists. One of the most active of those lobbyists is Ralph Nader. Typical of all lobbyists, no one elects him to office. He is responsible only to those who finance his existence and his activities. He is a lawyer who, so far as I know, has never practiced law, nor had a job. He has never served in Congress, nor on a Congressional staff. He has never been elected to public office.

He has now conducted a "study" certain to get him more publicity that all previous ones. I refer to his "investigation" of the Congress. He says the results will be released just before the November election, in order to have greatest political impact.

He submitted to each member of the Congress a book of 633 essay type questions covering several hundred pages. This obviously would require many weeks of time of the Congressman and his staff. The proposed program also consisted of many hours interview time that the Congressman was to give to college students who were conducting the "investigation".

If you are in suspense as to what my reaction to all this was, let me hurriedly say that I did not participate. Since I was unable to talk directly with Mr. Nader, I advised him, through a member of his staff, that he would be treated by me as any Washington lobbyist. That is, he could interview me himself in my office, consonant with my busy schedule and limited time. His staff member promptly declined this invitation.

Before the public swallows the content of this "investigation", it should know some facts and background. Mr. Nader gained his renown from massive news media coverage as the great consumer advocate who exposes automobile and appliance defects. He owns no car, nor TV set, however, and lives in a run- down Washington apartment. Let's briefly take a look at some case histories.

In response to Nader's charge that the Corvair was dangerously unstable, the Department of Transportation's National Highway Safety Administration conducted a two- year study on the Corvair. The investigation concluded that "the handling and stability performance of the 1960- 63 Corvair does not result in an abnormal potential for loss of control or rollover, and its performance is at least as good as that of some contemporary vehicles, both foreign and domestic." In no government test did a Corvair roll over. It has also been determined that "the Corvair was involved in a lower percentage of rollover accidents that other light domestic cars."

In reviewing the materials submitted by the Nader group, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration noted that Nader had submitted letters from three automotive engineers relating to Corvair's stability. The government called the documents contradictory and unfair, because the engineers were commenting on data obtained in a GM test of an experimental model Corvair which was intentionally turned over.

In the goverment's review of the Ford Motor Company films submitted by Mr. Nader, it was led to believe that the tests were biased in favor of the Falcon, and that the Corvair driver apparently was intentionally trying to get it to spin. It noted all the spins took place right in front of the cameras.

So called "No— Fault" Car Insurance has been the subject of discussion in the Congress in recent months, and legislation on this subject was defeated in the Senate in August. Mr. Nader has been unusually quiet on this, one of the most controversial "consumer issues" in recent years. No— fault insurance was strongly opposed by the American Trail Lawyers Association. It is ironical that Nader's inaction came as the American Trial Lawyers Association voted to donate $10,000 to Mr. Nader's auto safety work, plus an additional $10,000 to finance an index of automobile defects.

Soon after Mr. Nader arrived in Australia on Monday, July 3 1972, he criticized the country's auto safety rules as being behind the times, and its libel laws as inhibiting criticism. Australian Prime Minister William McMahon ably described the situation, "He has been in Australia 24 hours and sets himself up as judge of Australia without a proper knowledge of the country and its people.

Nader's Center for Automotive Safety wrote to Ford Motor Company criticizing and giving examples of eleven alleged control arm failures on Ford cars. The Automotive Safety Director of Ford later reported that the Center's letter contained "a number of inaccuracies and uncorroborated claims." Specifically, one of the Center's studies did not even involve a Ford car.

In 1970, Mr. Nader's tax exempt Center for the Study of Responsible Law sponsored a national essay contest on the subject of corporate responsibility. First prize was $750. After several months, Donald S. Gordon, a contestant, received a letter from the Center stating that the prizes would not be awarded because there had been too few entrants. Upon further investigation, Gordon learned that he was the sole entrant. He, therefore, reasoned that the $750 was his. The Center refuses to give him the money and he has now filed suit against Nader.

With respect to the study of Congress, one Member who participated fully with Nader found twenty six (26) factual errors in the resume of his report. Some observers feel, however, that the most unfair factor is that its purpose is to discredit incumbents without any analysis of the record or qualifications of the candidate challenging the Congressman.

Please do not interpret this to mean that Mr. Nader has never accomplished anything. It is likely he has made some worthwhile contributions. The purpose of the newsletter is to aid in answering the questions:

How credible is Mr. Nader's "investigation" of Congress?

Should your Congressman be held responsible to Mr. Nader or other Capitol lobbyists, or should he be accountable to his constituents?

Let me assure you that your Congressman will continue to look toward the citizens of Missouri's Tenth Congressional District, and nowhere else, for guidance and direction.

Coffee Corner
by Cherie

I was watching a group of children playing the other day and envying them their innocence and laughter, when another youngster appeared on the scene and the crowd suddenly turned on this one child like a pack of dogs. How sad, I guess we really lose our innocence the day we're born — or do we really ever have any at all? I could sympathize with this wee one who had so longed to join in the game of football with the others, and could still feel the intense pain I had suffered on occasions when as a child I had been tormented by my contemporaries and had come home crying and sobbing to my mother, "They say I'm skinny and I have long black hair on my arms and they don't want to play with me!" You can never explain jealousy to a child. I never understood until I was grown that I hadn't done anything to make them hate me so but perhaps the fact that I was dressed a little different than they had prompted all this. I certainly could have cared less about the clothing, my main interest then had simply been to be included and liked. How cruel children are, and how much more cruel are adults, (and God forgive me, I am just as guilty, if not more so because I dislike gossip so much and yet will often take part in it myself), who sit at the bridge tables and pass around the latest item, or who take apart the newest divorce, and who are all so smug and gloating inside that this rumor doesn't concern us, we're safe this time! And how cruel we can be even unintentionally — how sometimes we can just by ignoring someone when they have a special need of you, when only a few minutes of our time, or a compliment, or a kiss if it's a loved one would be all the difference in the world to them and we pass this opportunity by because we're too busy to take the time to see this need.

I'm usually not so philosophical, but the little incident with the children brought such a flood of memories back to me, that I thought it might be good for all of us to stop and think how good life is to us, and how much more wonderful it makes us feel to bring joy instead of grief into someone's heart. After all, Thanksgiving is just around the corner, and I don't think it would hurt any of us to count our blessings early this year.

Pair Apply Classical Piano To Country Music

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It's no wonder Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe nearly fell off their piano benches when asked to play country music with a classical flair.

After all, Whittemore and Lowe are one of the world's most brilliant classical pianist teams — and combining their talents with country music wasn't exactly a first class idea as they saw it.

"Jack, right off the bat, said 'No way.' We knew of the Nashville Sound and thought there's no way we could do that with our nine-foot grand pianos," recalled Whittemore.

But the game musicians gave it a whirl anyway. And after three weeks of backbreaking 15-hour-a-day work they tested their new product on one of country music's finest artists.

The occasion was a country music awards dinner by SESAC, a nationwide long licensing firm.

"The response has just been unbelievable," said Whittemore, who's been playing professionally alongside Lowe for more than a quarter century.

Alice Prager, head of SESAC, conceived the idea. She asked Whittemore and Lowe to interrupt their concert tour briefly and try it out. Actually, it wasn't the first time the famous piano duo had taken a nonclassical form of music and added classical flavor to it. Their first attempt at such a venture was in 1946 with pop music. And they've been doing that ever since.

But they concede that country music presented a much different challenge.

"In the first place," said Whittemore, "the audience might think, 'Oh God, this is going to be something rickyticky.'"

"It was very difficult to work out, but not because the notes threw us," said Lowe.

"We have to try to convey the emotion that's in the country song and because most country songs are based primarily on lyrics it became a real challenge," Whittemore added.

At that moment, Lowe chimed in: "That's what we like about the country music and bluegrass we've heard. It's very direct and emotional."

Emotional was the precise description of the SESAC performance. After the two played "Honey," "Crystal Chandeliers," and "He Touched Me," the audience was visibly moved to tears.

So, not to keep everyone in a blue funk too long, Whittemore and Lowe quickly embarked on a version of "Jackson" that had the crowd snapping fingers and tapping feet.

"These are melodious tunes," said Lowe. "They're appealing and it doesn't matter who you ar playing for."

"We'll continue doing this with the ones that are audience-tested and the ones we like," he continued.

"Asked why he was hesitant in the beginning, Lowe explained:

"At first I said this is all off. I was embarrassed that we might put our stamp on something that one day we might be ashamed of. It was artistic pride."

"It was three weeks before we began to think this is all right," Whittemore interrupted.

"But once we applied our techniques then we were on easy street," said Lowe.

"Not easy street," Whittemore quickly added. "But at least we were on our way."

The idea behind the entire venture was to make on album for the Country Music Hall of Fame archives in Nashville.

"But what started out to be a noncommercial venture was turned into something that's going to be quite big," said Mrs. Prager.

She said she was not in a position, at this time, to divulge what the future plans are for the album.

"We don't know either," said Whittemore, "we're dying to find out ourselves."

Board To Support Engineers

ST. LOUIS (AP)–The Missouri Water Resources Board has voted to support the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in a legal controversy over the Meramec Dam project. But Missouri Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth says his office will not support the Corps because it did not present an adequate environmental impact statement.

Normally the attorney general's office handles legal matters for state agencies.

The Sierra Club recently filed suit in U.S. District Court challenging the reservoir and recreation project on the Meramec River southwest of St. Louis.

Clifford L. Summers, executive director of the water resources board, said today that board members voted last Friday to help the Corps in any way possible, including intervention in the court case.

Danforth's office defended the Corps in connection with legal action brought against the Truman Dam project in western Missouri. But he said the environmental impact statement for the Truman project was lengthy while the one for the Meramec project is only eight pages long.

BOOKLET TELLS HOW TO CORRECT NOISE IN PLUMBING

Noisy plumbing is more than just a nuisance. It costs you money, the Plumbing-Heating- cooling Information Bureau points out. That's because noise is caused by some defect or unusually hard wear on parts of the system.

There are generally three types of noise – water hammer, whistling and chattering. Water hammer is the thump you hear when faucets are turned off abruptly. It's corrected with an air chamber, short length of pipe or in special cases, a shock absorber installed at the appropriate place.

Chattering is usually caused by loose pipe, worn faucet washers or other loose parts. Whistling is due to the speed of water flowing through too-small pipe. It's most common at bends and tees in the pipe and can usually be corrected with a pressure- reducing valve.

A booklet that gives you detailed information on plumbing noise problems as well as dozens of other tips on how to take care of your plumbing is available for 25 cents plus an 8 cent stamp from the Plumbing- Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

LIVING AND LEARNING by Karen Jackel (Avon W346/$1.25/ 224pp.)

The disintegration of a "perfect marriage" and the coming to womanhood of a distinctly American heroine are the themes of Karen Jackel's unusual novel LIVING AND LEARNING. It is the story of Carolyn Berg, whose life begins with the removal of her braces, transforming her into a beauty. She makes a disastrous marriage to a neurotic young doctor, comes dangerously close to emotional breakdown, and finally surfaces on the brink of life tough and poignant, LIVING AND LEARNING is about how difficult it is to share a life with other real people, how painful to become real oneself.

"Karen Jackel is among the most promising new writers I have encountered in recent years ... She has the driving narrative power of Joyce Carol Oates, and finally living and learning with Carolyn Berg is an actual experience. The final chapters are poignant, and Carolyn's assessment of her past, present, and future is very moving. The conversations between Carolyn and her husband are painfully exact," –David Madden, author of CASSANDRA SINGING and BROTHERS IN CONFIDENCE

Miss Jackel's work has been published in BEST AMERICAN SHORT STORIES edited by Martha Foley and David Burnett. Her short stories have been published in such periodicals as Harper's Bazaar, Epoch and Event. Currently teaching English at Queensborough Community College, she was a resident at Yaddo this past summer.

LIVING AND LEARNING is an Avon original not available in any other edition.

U.S. Command Uses Hard Sell To Get Gi's To Vote

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command has a hard-sell campaign to get out the GI vote in November. But some military disc jockeys who don't think the sell is hard enough are pushing their own punchier spots: "Put up or shut up!"

"We don't have dependents around, so we can talk in the vernacular," said Lt. Col. Felix L. Casipit, head of the American Forces Vietnam Network, of AFVN.

"We're talking to the American military fighting man so we can say, 'Get off your butt,' and not offend some woman doing her housecleaning."

Spec. 4 John Allgood, an AFVN disc jockey, said he decided to revamp a spot announcement that said, "Listen fella, vote!"

"I just didn't feel the spot was hard hitting enough," he said.

The Allgood version, broadcast repeatedly these days, says: "You're old enough to vote! So what? What are you going to do about it? Sit on your duff until after the elections and then complain about how the rest of us voted?

"The armed forces have made an all-out effort to get you to vote ... But no, you prefer to sit and wait until after the elections, and then you'll gripe ... That's a lot of bull and you know it."

Allgood, a former recordspinner for a of Chicago station, said: "So many guys say, 'I don't like this. I don't like that.' And they don't vote. I think it's a crime. It's so easy to fill out an absentee ballot form."

Since May, the military has been campaigning in the field, in radio and television and through the armed forces newspaper Stars and Stripes to get out the vote.

The first push was for registration with an outline of each state's requirements. This was followed with the procedures for absentee balloting and a request to the GIs to ask their families for clippings from hometown papers so they could learn about local issues.

Every night during prime time, the military television network is running several one-second, subliminal-type spots. Each says "vote" — one superimposed on an outline of the United States, another on a bikini-clad girl.

Col. Thomas E. Hail Jr., head of the U.S. Command's voting campaign, said the military keeps no count of how many of the 30,000 GIs in Vietnam are voting.

"We don't want to be in the position of coercing anybody into voting," he said. "My own opinion is that there is considerable interest in the election at this time, but I have no statistics to back it up."

One snafu in the voting campaign has been the failure of some communities to send absentee ballots to servicemen. Hall said he had received several queries about this, but the military could do nothing about it.

New Option For Army Enlistment

The Department of the Army has announced that the Third United States Infantry division (The Old Guard), based in Washington, D.C., is now part of the special unit of Choice Enlistment Option.

Sgt. C. L. McCoy, local Army recruiter, explained that under the new option, an enlistee can specify the Third Infantry, and if accepted, be guaranteed a three- year stabilized tour in the Washington, D.C., area at time of enlistment.

The Army's oldest regiment, The Old Guard today is charged with a dual mission: it is the Army's official honor guard and escort for the President. Its members are a familiar sight in the nation's capitol, as they are responsible for the conduct of all military ceremonies held at the White House, the Pentagon and National Memorials.

Armed Forces

RAPID CITY, S. D. — Airman First Class D. Fred Heiserman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale F. Heiserman of R. R. 1, Lawrence Kan., and his unit at Ellsworth AFB, S.D., have been honored for rescue and recovery work during and after the flash flood that devastated nearly 30 per cent of nearby Rapid City June 9-10.

Airman Heiserman is a precision measuring equipment specialist with the Strategic Air Command's 28th Bomb Wing, which received the U. S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award for exceptionally meritorious achievement from June 9 to July 10.

The flood, triggered just before midnight June 9 when heavy rainfall in the surrounding hills caused the Lake Dam to break, took at least 216 lives and sent property damage estimates beyond the $100 million mark.

Manpower Projects Announced

KANSAS CITY– Grants to Missouri manpower projects totaling $1,206,270 have been announced by the U.S. Department of Labor office in Kansas City.

Neal B. Hadsell, regional manpower administrator, said most of the funds will go to continuing projects.

Neighborhood Youth Corps projects in four areas were allocated $591,690 to continue programs for 417 disadvantaged youth, both in and out of school.

Operation Mainstream projects in four communities were granted $369,080 to provide work experience for mature workers who have experienced chronic unemployment.

The Missouri Division of Employment Security received two grants. One added $85,000 to its program for on- the- job training in private industry. It arranges for employers to provide such training and reimburses them for expenses. This program, called JOBS-Optional (JOP), was modified last year to make it more readily available to returning veterans.

The other grant of $99,000 will enable the Division of Employment Security to continue operation of Gatehouses in St. Louis and Kansas City for returning graduates of the Job Corps. The Gatehouses help the youngsters with employment and other reorientation.

Hadsell also announced approval of a contract under the job Opportunities in the Business Sector (JOBS) program, under which Reinell Boats, Inc., will hire and train 50 disadvantaged workers at its Poplar Bluff plant.

Since the JOBS program is a joint effort of the Labor Department and the National Alliance of Businessmen, the department reimburses employers for extraordinary expense in hiring and training workers with little or no work experience.

Reimbursement to Reinell Boats, Inc., may reach $61,500 over the nine- month term of the contract.

Portageville was also a Southeast Missouri town which received grants totaling $255,300. The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation's NYC project with 250 enrollees received $101,280 and the Operation Mainstream project, $154,020.

Hayti Chief Injured In Boat Mishap

HAYTI– Police Chief Fred (Fritz) McKay was injured on Sunday when the boat he was piloting hit an underwater bank in the Boatclub Chute, throwing him into the windshield. The right side of his face was seriously cut and his cheekbone and nose were broken.

He was operated on at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis on Tuesday.

McKay, Neely Mitchell Jr., Harold Jansen, Hugh James and Clint Perry were in the boat when the accident happened. Even though the boat, a jet powered, v- type hull is capable of high speeds, it was not traveling above a moderate rate when striking the bank.

Unable to get the boat off the bank, two of the men waded out and found two fishermen who took the group back to the Triangle Boat Club where their cars were parked and McKay was rushed to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital, then on to Memphis.

Jansen sustained a bruised chest after being thrown into the windshield, too. The others were shaken up but not injured. The group had just finished building and putting into position some duck blinds.
